BULLETIN
Shanghai, (Friday)—(AP)—The Chinese government at Nanking notified the league of nations assembly today that the 19th route army had been instructed to cease hostilities in this area unless it were attacked.

Shanghai—Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura and General Yoshinori Shirakawa, navy and army commanders, announced tonight they ordered their forces to cease hostilities in the Shanghai area.

The Japanese forces were ordered to consolidate the positions they now hold on the border of a 12½ mile zone around the city unless the Chinese resorted to further hostile action.

"I have ordered the army to stop for the time being at the points it occupies," General Shirakawa said, "and to stop fighting if the Chinese cease hostilities."

The statements of the two commanders followed a confused situation earlier in the afternoon. The Japanese league issued a statement between 2 and 3 o'clock that hostilities would be ended immediately but Chinese civil authorities said there was no indication that the orders had been put into effect.

Nearly two hours later it was announced that the military forces occupied the Chinese Lungwa arsenal and the garrison headquarters at the Lungwa station of the Shanghai-Hangchow railway at the extreme southern outskirts of Shanghai. It was also reported they were also planning to occupy Nantao, a huge block of the native quarter, abutting on the French concession.

Residents Return
Little groups of timorous former residents of ruined Chapei drifted back into the city late today after the fighting was over and probed cautiously into piles of debris that once had been their homes.

Slowly at first, and then more rapidly as they gained confidence that the patrolling Japanese blue-jackets no longer threatened harm to them, the refugees struggled into the city that once was the most populous native quarter of Shanghai.

Many of them could not even find the streets they formerly occupied, to say nothing of the places where their homes used to be. They stood stunned by the black destruction. Cautiously they walked past the blue-jacket patrols and seemed much surprised that no shots or challenges greeted them, in striking contrast to the first few days of the Chapei terror when most of them were driven out.

Here and there a group located a wreckage heap that seemed familiar and permission was asked timidly of the Japanese to explore the rubbish. Most of them received an indifferent grunt for a reply.

A few of the Chinese were sighted who stood with gaping mouths at the scene before them. Some children, fascinated by the blue-jackets' uniforms, tried to fraternize with them, but the guards maintained a solid aloofness, even vigilant for snipers or other surprises which they had learned to expect for the past month in Chapei.

Huge fires continued to burn here and there, consuming the last vestiges of inflammable material in the city.

MOTHER, 2 CHILDREN
DROWN WHEN AUTO
PLUNGES OFF WHARF

Cleveland—(AP)—A mother and two children drowned here last night when their automobile ran off a wharf into the Cuyahoga river. The husband and father, Leonard Pegg, of Berea, Ohio, managed to break a window of the car, and escaped. He was taken to a hospital suffering from shock.

Those drowned were Mrs. Ethel M. Pegg, 38, and her children, Curtis, 10, and Maxine, 8.

The father told police he intended to turn onto another street at the bottom of a steep thoroughfare leading toward the river, but that his foot slipped from the brake to the accelerator, and he lost control. The car sank in 10 feet of water.

Police and coast guards were unable to pull the automobile out because the wooden wharf was too old to bear the strain of a wrecking car's lifting.

Japanese Terms "Absolutely Unacceptable," Dr. Yen Tells League

Geneva—(AP)—Negotiations for an armistice at Shanghai have broken down, Dr. W. W. Yen, the Chinese spokesman, told the league of nations assembly this afternoon.

Simultaneously Dr. Yen's office presented a report to Secretary General Sir Eric Drummond of the league, asserting that Japanese armistice terms as presented to Vice-Admiral Sir Howard Kelly of the British Asiatic fleet, were "absolutely unacceptable." The report added that continuation of hostilities was unavoidable.

The report, in the form of a note signed by Dr. Yen, asserted that the Japanese terms "show a radical departure from an understanding reached about the British flagships 'Kent'."

The note said the Japanese suggestions were "tantamount to conditions of surrender and were absolutely unacceptable."

The Japanese terms which were denounced by Yen provided that the Chinese withdrew their troops first to a distance to be determined between the Chinese and Japanese authorities and that thereafter the details and duration of an armistice should be determined by similar direct bilateral negotiations.

Yen's declaration before the assembly followed closely along the lines of the note to Secretary General Drummond and he asserted that China's only alternative in the present situation was "further resistance to Japanese attacks."

Fifty member states of the league of nations met today to consider the Sino-Japanese conflict in an extraordinary session on the league assembly which many expected to be one of the most important meetings since the league was founded.

China called the meeting under an article of the league covenant by which the powers undertake to apply economic sanctions in conflicts such as that in the far east.

HOUSE NEARING
VOTE ON WHEAT
FOR U. S. NEEDY

Stone Protests Taking Grain from Board Without Reimbursement

Washington—(AP)—The senate bill to provide 40,000,000 bushels of farm board wheat for the needy was brought up in the house today with a final vote expected before adjournment.

Meanwhile, Chairman Stone of the farm board told newspaper men it was "utterly unfair" to take the wheat from the board without reimbursement.

He contended that $500,000,000 had been given the board to help agriculture and that "it is an extremely bad principle to use it for relief purposes."

Approved by Democratic house leaders, the measure was presented to the house by Chairman Poy of the rules committee. The wheat would be distributed by the Red Cross.

"Under ordinary conditions I would not support such a measure," Poy said, "but we are confronted by unparalleled conditions throughout the country."

"We have an abundance of food and yet we have hunger. It needs no apology for the government to exert itself to relieve distress the best way it can."

Face Other Measures
"We must see to it that men, women and children should not go hungry. Perhaps there will be other measures the congress may be called upon to consider."

Representative Fish (R., N. Y.), who started a discharge petition to bring the bill before the house, said: "It is the first measure to relieve distress that has been brought before this house by the Democratic leadership."

"This bill alone will afford relief to millions of people without cost of one additional cent to the taxpayers," Fish said.

The farm board must pay off primary loans of 32 cents a bushel against the wheat before it is given to the Red Cross. If the entire 40,000,000 are used, the board's treasury will be further reduced by approximately $14,000,000, leaving a working balance of only $35,000,000 remaining in uncommitted funds out of the $500,000,000.

Chairman Stone said that with a reduced budget the board may be required to discharge men now engaged in assisting cooperatives, but he added it would continue to do its best in promoting the growth of these organizations.

PAPAL OFFICIALS ARE HONORED BY MONARCH
Rome—(AP)—King Victor Emanuel conferred the Collar of the Annunziata today on Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, papal secretary of state, making him "a cousin of the king."

The Annunziata is the highest Italian order and is the one which was given Premier Benito Mussolini.

The grand cross of the Order of Saints Maurice and Lazarus was conferred on four other Vatican dignitaries by the king. Those who received this decoration were Master of Ceremonies Caccia Dominioni, Monsignor Ottaviani, undersecretary of state, Monsignor Pizzardi, secretary of state for extraordinary affairs, and the Marchese Pacelli, attorney for Pope Pius XI and cousin of Cardinal Pacelli.

Missing Lindbergh Child

Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, today was still in the hands of his kidnapers. The parents and authorities were making efforts to enter negotiations for payment of ransom.

GIVES APPROVAL TO BUS CONTROL BILL

Badger Commissioner Suggests Amendments to Couzens Measure

Washington—(AP)—Approval of the principle of the Couzens bill to regulate interstate bus and truck traffic was put before the senate interstate commerce committee today by A. McDonald, of Madison, Wis., for the National Association of Railroad and Utility Commissioners.

McDonald, chairman of the organization's legislative committee and a member of the Wisconsin Public Service commission, said the association wished to propose several amendments.

The bill, as submitted by Chairman Couzens of the committee, would put bus and truck traffic under the regulation of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

One of the major changes recommended by McDonald proposed that the joint boards plans to deal with questions involving not more than three states be composed solely of state representatives.

The other was that the contract carrier class as well as common carriers be required to obtain a certificate of public convenience and necessity.

Couzens expressed the opinion provisions requiring a permit for the contract carriers would suffice for regulation and gathering statistics.

AUTO BUILDER DIES

HYDE TESTIFIES ON PUBLIC WORKS BILL

Washington—(AP)—Secretary Hyde testified before the house expenditures committee today that if the agriculture viewpoint were retained in the bureau of public roads he saw no objection to its transfer to an administration of public works.

Appearing at the special invitation of the committee to give his views on a bill pending to create an administration of public works, the secretary said he thought there might be some resultant saving from the consolidation of building activities into one department, but that he could not "put my finger on a specific saving."

The appearance of Hyde led Chairman Cochran to say he might not have to withdraw his charge that cabinet officers aren't cooperating with congressmen seeking to reduce expenditures by merging government activities.

LOESCH ASKS APPROVAL FOR JUDGE WILKERSON

Washington—(AP)—Confirmation of Judge James H. Wilkerson of Chicago, as circuit judge was recommended to a senate judiciary committee today by Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime Commission.

Loesch, who was a member of the Wilkerson commission, said he was supporting Wilkerson because of "the way in which he handled the Capone matter."

Judge Wilkerson, Loesch said, had shown himself to be "perfectly fair, very industrious and very energetic."

Loesch was presented by Senator Glenn (R., Ill.), who is supporting Wilkerson's nomination.

Glenn placed in the record resolutions endorsing Wilkerson as a bar association of the northern Illinois counties in a present district.

OHIO COUPLE
STILL AWAITS
WORD OF BOY

Police Unable to Find Trace of Two Kidnapers and Their Automobile

Niles, Ohio—(AP)—Like Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, two Ohio parents waited in anguish today for the hoped-for safe return of a kidnaped son.

The boy, James Delute, Jr., 11, son of a wealthy Niles contractor, was overpowered and stolen by two men from near his home here yesterday. They fled with him in an automobile.

Although two witnesses of the kidnaping gave police a good description of the abductors and their car, no definite trace of them was found.

Police throughout Ohio, western Pennsylvania, and West Virginia were asked to be on the lookout today for the boy and the men. James was described as 4½ feet tall, light complexion, and dark hair. He was wearing a gray leather coat with sheepskin collar, and a gray cap.

Mr. and Mrs. Delute expected to receive today a note demanding a heavy ransom for the boy's return. The contractor said he knew of no enemies, and that without doubt the kidnapers were looking for "easy money." He offered $10,000 reward for their capture and conviction.

On Way To School
James was stolen while going to school with his cousin, Anna, May 12. After making certain of his identity, the kidnapers grabbed him. They did not bother the girl.

Anna May said James struggled loose once before the men finally got him in their automobile, a Ford coupe of light tan color.

Hearing the screams of the frightened youngsters, Mrs. H. L. Woodward rushed to their rescue from her home nearby, but arrived too late. She gave police the license number of the auto, but they said the tags, which had been stolen Jan. 18, were probably discarded soon after the flight began, and that the kidnapers also probably changed automobiles.

One of the most likely clues to the kidnapers' trail was a report that a car like theirs was seen 20 minutes after the abduction, speeding through Brookfield, Ohio, toward Sharon, Pa.

CHEESE FEDERATION
MAPS NEW ECONOMIES

Plymouth—(AP)—Far reaching economies in management of the National Cheese Producers' federation and development of an aggressive marketing organization were promised today in a statement issued by Fred Hantzicker, president.

The statement, he said, was issued in behalf of the federation's executive committee to acquaint the public and members of progress made in carrying out the so-called seven point program adopted at the annual meeting Feb. 11.

A new policy of advancing money to American cheese factories, designed to correct difficulties encountered in a failing market in the past, has been adopted, Hantzicker said. It will apply to cheese made in May and thereafter. The essential change is that the sum to be advanced to factories will be determined 20 to 25 days later, instead of immediately.

Loesch was presented by Senator Glenn (R., Ill.), who is supporting Wilkerson's nomination.

U. S. CONSIDERS
CAPONE PRISON

Chicago Gang Ruler to Be Sent Either to Atlanta or Leavenworth

Washington—(AP)—The Atlanta and Leavenworth penitentiaries are being considered by the justice department for future imprisonment of Al Capone, Chicago gangster.

At the justice department, Henry C. Laubenthal, United States marshal at Chicago, has been in conference with Sanford Bates, director of the federal prison bureau, on which Capone will be transferred from Cook county jail.

The transfer awaits a mandate from the circuit court of appeals, in which the underworld leader was convicted of federal tax evasion.

It was explained today it is optional with the court when the mandate is given. It might be given even though Capone appeals to the supreme court.

Apparently the McNeill's Island Federal prison is not being considered because Ralph Capone, brother of Al, already is imprisoned there.

The department has adopted a policy of separating convicted members of the Capone gang as far as possible.

COMMITTEE REMAINS
SPLIT OVER TAXATION

Washington—(AP)—The house ways and means committee continued divided today over the proposed rate on the manufactures sales tax sections of the new $1,000,000,000 revenue bill and failed to make any substantial progress.

The committee has yet to decide whether the 2 per cent or 3 per cent rate will be applicable. The 2 per cent rate would yield about $517,000,000 and the 3 per cent $660,000,000 more.

At the chairman's desk today the bill might not be ready for introduction in the house until next Monday.

REPORTS CHILD

Missive Mailed in Boston
Says Lindbergh Baby in Provincetown, N. J.

WOMAN IS BEING SOUGHT
Lindbergh Decides to Keep
Police on Job but Ransom
Offer Holds

Newark, N. J.—(AP)—The Newark News said today that state police at Trenton were questioning a Hope-well boy who reported that at 6:30 Tuesday evening he saw an automobile at the entrance to the lane leading to the Lindbergh home. He said there was one man in the car, who also held three short ladders.

BULLETIN
The letter gave the name of the place as "Provincetown, N. J." but the police interpreted it as referring to Provincetown, not far from Princeton. The police and postal officials said the tip appeared to be the best clue in the case thus far, and basing their judgment on their experience in such matters, said they believed it to be genuine.

After examination of the letter, which had been taken from the mails by authorization of Colonel Lindbergh, the massive was returned to the postoffice and once more started on its way.

Describe Woman
The letter was mailed shortly after 10 a. m. in a postal station in Boston's south end by a woman, described about 60 years old, 5 feet, six inches tall, weighing about 150 pounds, dressed in dark clothing and speaking with a strong accent, probably German.

The woman had bought an air mail stamp, affixed it to the letter, and then departed, apparently in a state of extreme agitation. A postal clerk promptly found the letter, which was called sharply to his attention by the typewritten notation on the envelope.

"Please spare no effort to have this message concerning Colonel Lindbergh's son passed to him as fast as possible. This is no hoax, but a really important communication."

Hope of finding the woman revealed a set back when, two hours after the letter had been mailed, police stopped the car in which the standers said she had driven away. Its driver, Harry S. Spring, formerly of Milford, N. J., admitted having been in the postal station this morning but said his presence there was about the time the woman mailed the letters must have been a coincidence.

Spring said he had called at the station to obtain mail for a school friend. Spring's story was substantiated by his father, who said his son had worked in Milford, but had come to Boston three weeks ago after being laid off. He said a man after had called today to tell the young man that a friend was sick in the city hospital and that the son had taken his mother and a woman friend down town, enroute to the hospital.

The typed notice in the envelope had Lindbergh's name spelled incorrectly, omitting the final "h."

The Boston police and postal authorities quickly obtained authorization to open the letter from Col. Lindbergh, both by telephone and telegram in the following message: "This is authority to open the letter addressed to me and now in your possession. Telephone Hopewell 317 as to its contents."

Police records had to be sent to the postal station at Washington and the search ended after word spread that a letter to Lindbergh had been made there for a large crowd promptly gathered about the office and in the street.

Hopewell, N. J.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh decided today to keep the police on the job and make every effort to run down the kidnapers of his baby son. There was no indication, however, that he had withdrawn his offer to pay ransom for the baby's return.

After Gov. Harry Moore visited Col. Lindbergh it was learned that the suggestion had been made that Col. Lindbergh call off the police search and issue an appeal to the kidnapers to return the baby on a no-questions-asked basis.

It was not revealed who made this suggestion but it was learned that Col. Lindbergh repudiated it in a statement and forefeared that it announced that instead of asking withdrawal of the police he would urge them to every possible effort.

"There is absolutely no basis for the report that the baby's return is expected today," the governor said. The governor also revealed that finger prints had been found on the nursery window through which the Governor Suggests Cuts In Higher Salaries At U. Of W.

WOULD SLASH PAY OF CHIEF, FORMER CHIEF

Also Favors Reduction for Various Administrative Officials

Madison—(AP)—A reduction in the salaries of President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin, Dr. E. A. Birge, president emeritus, and various university administrative officials has been suggested to the board of regents by Governor LaFollette, a member of the emergency board which is revising all state appropriations.

Dr. Frank receives $20,400 a year, of which $18,000 is direct salary and remainder, an allowance for upkeep of his home and for entertaining visiting educators. Dr. Birge has been getting $10,000 annually since his retirement as head of the institution.

Some of the administrative officers whose salaries vary, receive remuneration which the governor said appears to him to be way out of line with salaries of the teaching staff.

The emergency board has only the power to suggest the reductions it can cut the university's appropriations but it is up to the regents to say whether any such cut shall be yearly absorbed by slicing the salaries of Dr. Frank and others.

To Cut Faculty

Governor LaFollette explained that he proposed reductions in the higher incomes of the university personnel because the plans for voluntary savings during the biennium, by which the institution expects to turn $408,609 into the general fund, contemplates the elimination of a number of assistants in the lower ranks of the faculty.

"I don't believe it will be considered fair if we reduce the number of assistants and ignore the higher salaries," he said. "I want it to be clear that this is not a matter of personalities."

For three weeks the emergency board has been interviewing all department heads to see how much they have cut their budgets. With the $408,609 contribution of the university, which was the last to be heard of the total in voluntary savings is around $2,000,000 exclusive of any cuts that might be made in state funds.

The legislative authority, under which the board is proceeding to balance the budget in an effort to prevent a state property tax next fall, does not take in highway funds.

With hearings concluded, the board will soon start executive sessions to determine how much will have to be cut in addition to the $2,000,000 in voluntary savings. In making the determination it will have to decide whether further cuts will be applied proportionally to all departmental budgets or taken out of some that would be better able than others to stand it.

Seek Further Cuts

It is probable that branches such as the university and the normal schools will be asked to absorb more than others, which will entail the question of cutting salaries or personnel, and that a recommendation will be made for reduction of higher salaries in all departments.

The old issue of "deadwood" at the university cropped up in a verbal sparring match between Governor LaFollette and President Frank.

Whether there has been any actual reassessment of educational values at the institutions since its appropriations were increased more than $1,000,000 involved a lengthy discussion.

The governor said he has examined the list of faculty members in science and science, protected by tenure of office and found that virtually the same ones are on the faculty now who were employed in 1925.

President Frank declared there had been a big turnover in the personnel, that some had been eased out and that all totals show 239 positions vacated and 407 filled during the period between 1925 and 1931.

After considerable discussion President Frank said: "All that's left is the question whether there are 40 or 50 people on the university, whose dismissal would mean an improvement. It is the judgment of the administrators that there is no such number. We have a very superior staff."

The governor expressed the opinion that it is a difficult matter, under the rule of tenure to ease out a member of faculty rank even though others may have a strong feeling as to his capacity as a teacher.

President Frank replied that there is some difficulty but that a man can be removed for gross incompetence. He said that without the rule of tenure "you would eat into the independence of the teaching profession more than you have now."

Progress at U. W.

"If it is true that you are satisfied with your staff, as nearly as it is humanly possible to be satisfied, what is the university doing to correct the evils in education of which you have spoken?" the governor asked.

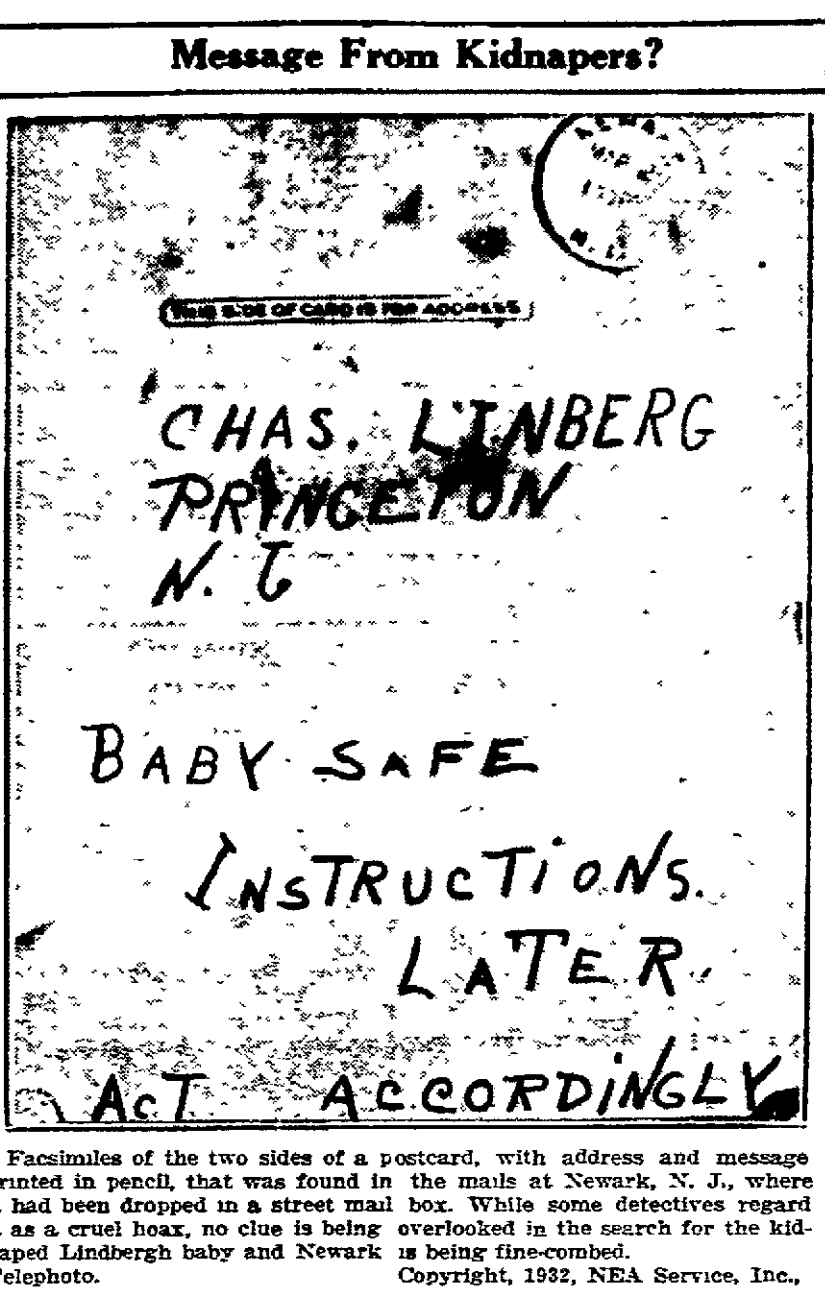

"Those evils had to do with the underlying principles of liberal education," Dr. Frank said. "There is more progress in liberal education at the University of Wisconsin than anywhere else." He also said that improvements would not be reflected in the budget.

Assemblyman C. A. Beggs of Rice Lake, member of the emergency board, wanted to know what had happened at the university that would not have happened if the appropriations had not been increased.

President Frank protested that the real values in education cannot be tabulated and shown.

"You have definitely stopped one thing," he said. "That is the easing of the university by any one that wanted to rate it. You are definitely improved the staff and retained the good men. There has

Most Outrageous Thing I've Heard Of, Capone Says Of Lindbergh Kidnaping Case

Chicago—(AP)—Men who match wits daily with the underworld—cunning veterans of Chicago's crime wars—and the man known as the city's most notorious gangster have offered their aid to track down the kidnapers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., and restore him safely to his famous parents.

The celebrated Secret Six, nemesis of kidnapers, bank robbers and other denizens of gangland, last night expressed a desire to assist through its head, Col. Robert Isham Randolph, for the last two years a leader in the civic drive on crime.

The state's attorney's office was reported to have delegated Pat Roche, the ace of its investigators and recent captor of an alleged mid-west kidnaping ring, to fine-comb the Chicago area for possible clues to the abduction.

And from his prison cell in the county jail, "Scarface Al" Capone, the deposed gang lord, announced he would pay $10,000 for information leading to the safe return of the Lindbergh boy and the arrest and conviction of the kidnapers.

"It's the most outrageous thing I have ever heard of," said Capone, who is under an 11 year prison sentence for income tax evasion. "If I were out of jail I could be of some real assistance."

In a copyrighted story written especially for the Associated Press, Col. Randolph advised that payment of the reported $50,000 ransom demand made upon the Lindberghs seems to be the only possible procedure under the circumstances.

been placed in agriculture a leadership, the fruits of which will tell in years to come. There has been a steady progress in education."

The next step in liberal education, he said, will be reconstruction of the first and second years in the colleges. He said this is the one unfinished job of the recent fish report and that it should be completed by the end of this semester.

To determine whether there has been any real reassessment of values at the university Dr. Frank will submit to the board at its request a list of faculty members dropped by administrative action.

WISCONSIN MICHIGAN POWER CO.

$3,000 SOUGHT HERE BY ARMY IN RELIEF PROGRAM

Money Needed to Continue Work With Transients, Council Told

Their 1932 funds exhausted and their doors crowded with unemployed, the Salvation Army Wednesday night appealed to the common council to appropriate $3,000 for the continuance of the Army relief work during the rest of 1932. The communication said that unless aided the Army would have to close its doors to the unemployed, which would result in a heavy imposition upon the city. The matter was referred to the poor committee with the suggestion that the committee meet with Salvation Army officials and members of the Appleton Welfare and Relief council.

Answering the request of the board of education that the city cancel taxes on the Salvation Army building, now paid by the school board, the finance committee reported pointed out that the city has no authority to cancel taxes.

A communication from the Chicago and Northwestern Railway company attempted to justify the removal of the S. Oneda-st crossing flagman without council permission. The letter explained that in an attempt to curtail expenses one of the flagmen had been removed and train crews instructed to protect their own movements over the crossing from 5:30 in the evening until 7 o'clock the next morning. A flagman is on duty from 7 in the morning until 5:30 in the evening. The company officials contended that the action has resulted in no violation of safety rules, and that under the

The whole eastern half of the United States and Canada became a field for the nation's greatest man-hunt. Thousands of automobiles were stopped, while bridges, ferries, railroads, steamship lines, interurban buses and other methods of travel were carefully guarded.

New York—(AP)—More than 10,000 women, most of them with children of their own, are on the watch here for the kidnapers of the Lindbergh child. They are the wives of New York's policemen, enlisted in the search. They have been told to be watchful when they go outdoors, and report any possible clue.

Hopewell, N. J.—(AP)—Troopers on the Lindbergh estate catch a fleeting glimpse now and then of a face peering from the window of the nursery from which the Lindbergh baby was stolen. It is white and haggard. It is the face of Mrs. Anne Lindbergh, the child's mother. To the troopers with wives and children of their own it is the most harrowing part of the tragedy.

The request of F. W. BRITISH PRESS IS INDIGNANT OVER CHILD'S KIDNAPING

London—(AP)—The kidnaping of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., aroused the entire British press to indignant editorial comment today.

Under the caption "A Monstrous Crime" the Daily Telegraph said: "Few more open challenges to civilized government ever have been ventured. Every citizen of America who is able to do so feels he has to play his part in rescuing Charles Augustus Lindbergh and the whole world will enter into the acute anxiety of his parents and share in a hope for the child's speedy recovery."

"If this cruel and miserable method of intimidation with a helpless child as its victim," the Manchester Guardian said, "is really the work of 'racketeers' and if the outcome of it is not a genuine and determined effort to end the whole deplorable business in all its ramifications, then the rot must be sunk very deeply into American life."

ICE ON WINNEBAGO BREAKS UP AGAIN

Fishermen Rush to Lake to Retrieve Shanties as Ice Crumbles

For the fourth time this winter ice on Lake Winnebago is breaking up, according to Appleton ice fishermen who have taken their fish shanties to shore before they are washed away on ice floes. Mild weather during the past few days rapidly melted the ice.

The first break up occurred about the middle of last December during a mild spell when the ice was only three inches thick. About a week later, however the lake against was covered as the mercury dropped below the freezing point for several days. Shortly after that the ice cracked up again, and the process was repeated late in January.

Ice fishermen of this vicinity say they had little luck this winter. Fish were not biting and the winter was too mild for the sport.

SHAKESPEARE PLAY WILL BE GIVEN AT GREEN BAY, FONDY

Otis Skinner and Maude Adams Play in "Merchant of Venice"

"The Merchant of Venice", with Maude Adams and Otis Skinner, will be shown at the Orpheum theatre in Green Bay on March 10 and at the Garrick theatre in Fond du Lac on March 11. Appleton persons who wish to see the play must see it in either of these two cities, as plans to present it here have been abandoned.

The production of the famous Shakespearean play has aroused nationwide interest, chiefly because it marks the return, after a retirement of 13 years, of one of the most beloved figures in the history of the American stage, Maude Adams. Miss Adams will play the part of Portia, while Otis Skinner will play opposite her as Shylock, a part which he has already made famous.

The play is already on the road and it has attained nationwide acclaim, chiefly due to the ability of these two artists of the American stage and its production in this part of the country presents an opportunity to people in this vicinity which has never been equalled in previous stage presentations. The play was originally booked to show in Appleton on March 11, but inadequate stage facilities in either the Lawrence chapel or any of the theatres necessitated cancellation of the booking.

The building will have two main dining rooms and five will be for private parties. The interior of the structure is being remodeled and redecorated and new fixtures installed. New equipment will be installed in a remodeled kitchen.

Pointing out the extension division's interest in an adult education program, Dean Chester D. Snell said "facilities for intelligent public discussion should be increased during periods of great stress like the present because they act as safety valves preventing explosions of mob violence and because they generate instead constructive measures for improving conditions."

"Stephen, Full of Faith and Power"

(Read Acts 6:1-15)

What a radiant person Stephen must have been! His appearance, we are told, was such that those who looked upon him saw his face as it had been the face of an angel. There is no reason why we all should not share in this same process of spiritual transformation. It is the Light of God's Presence shining through the Person of Christ and falling upon us to fill us with a mysterious power. Stephen had availed himself of that which is as free as our disposal as the air and the sunshine— if only we will take it and use it. By absorbing faith and power from our spiritual environment, we are enabled to kindle faith and to generate power in others.

Prayer: Teach us, O Father, to pray as we ought to pray, that our lives may be touched by Thy flame. Kindle our spirits with such a fire of passion for Thee, that our faith may arouse in others the same love that we have felt, and that the power in us may be used for Thy service, in the name of Jesus our Master. Amen

Council Battles Over Proposed Slash In Band Appropriation

ORDINANCE TO CUT LIMIT SENT TO COMMITTEE

Petition Asking $3,000 Maximum Presented to Aldermen

Hammering fists and wall-splitting oratory Wednesday night broke the serenity that has prevailed over council meetings in the last few months, when the question of the band appropriation brought on a vehement yoke-didn't-battle. Alderman Mike Steinhauser and R. F. McGilgan led the band upholders, and Alderman Wenzel Hassman stood by his resolution asking that the question of the limitation of the band appropriation be put to a referendum at the spring election. An amended ordinance attached to the petition was referred to the ordinance committee and ordered published.

Alderman Philipp Vogt, president of the council, presided at the meeting, in the absence of Mayor John G. Land, Jr., who is confined to his home. The battle royal was precipitated by a petition signed by 1,123 taxpayers asking that the council amend the present ordinance so that the limit of the band appropriation be $3,000 instead of $10,000, or submit the question to the voters at the spring election. The petition was supplemented by the Hassman resolution asking that the question be put to the voters.

Charging that many of the signers of the petition had been erroneously told that the band is getting from $10,000 to $14,000 a year, Alderman Steinhauser asked that the council refuse to accept the petition. He declared that 90 per cent of the signers had never read the petition, and expressed the opinion that if one were to start out with a petition asking that all street lights and lamp posts in the city be removed he could secure at least 2,000 signatures.

Steinhauser Defends Band Opening more or less gently with the opinion that the organization that prompted the petition might be a bit prejudiced, Steinhauser swung into a defense of the band and ended up by charging the circulators of the petition with willful misrepresentation.

"A good many of the signers are ready now to take their names off the petition," he declared. "They didn't know what they were signing and many of them were told the band is drawing from $10,000 to $14,000 a year, and that the director is getting $3,000 a year, when as a matter of fact he draws only $3,000. It isn't fair to bring this up two weeks before election and try to railroad it through. Why doesn't the Fifth Ward voters club get the other side of the story?"

"We have a wonderful band, and everybody knows the advertising the band has brought the city. We could get cheaper directors, but they couldn't do the work. Besides, with the city spending $10,000 a year for music in the schools we need an organization to take up some of our school-trained musicians after they get out of high school. I think it would be a sad mistake to tear down a thing that we have spent thousands of dollars in building up, and if there ever was a time when music is needed it's during a period of depression, when people can go to the park and forget their troubles."

"Lies," Charges McGilgan To the tattoo of his fist pounding on the desk, Alderman McGilgan declared the misrepresentation of facts, calling it "dirty work to circulate petitions and lie about them." He said the band provides music for the poor people, those who cannot afford to go to the theatres, to hear Sousa and other nationally known musical organizations. He reviewed the history of Appleton bands from the time of Dana's band down to the present one, declaring that now Appleton has a band that is known throughout the country.

Alderman Hassman denied the charges made by the First ward alderman, saying that the persons who signed knew what they were signing. "I want you to understand that this $10,000 talk isn't true," he protested, "and furthermore this thing has been thrashed out for months, and everyone knew it would come before the council."

Acting mayor Vogt upheld the charge that the band had gone around that the band was getting $10,000 a year, and suggested that the question be submitted to the voters. He predicted that with Appleton the music center of the public would vote to keep the band. He presented statistics to show that Little Chute pays 75 cents on every assessed valuation of $1,000 for its band, while Appleton pays only $132 on every thousand.

Porting to a technical error in the argument, Alderman Thompson showed that the ordinance could not be adopted immediately, that it would have to follow the usual procedure of going to the finance committee and being published. He commended the council that the petitioners asked that it go to the public only at the event that the council refused to amend the ordinance. In answer to his question the city attorney pointed out that an amendment would not affect this year's arrangement with the band, that the change would become effective at the time the budget is set next fall.

Singer Now

When a typical American boy grows up, he becomes a tenor in a trio, plays football and spends part of his time working in motion pictures.

At least that's what happened to Jack Parker of Los Angeles, Calif., whose portrait was once displayed throughout the nation as a typical youth. Several years ago, the National Bureau of Education sent Norman Rockwell on an excursion to find and paint an "inspirational" picture for students competing in a nationwide essay contest. He chose Jack Parker, then 13, as the typical American youth. The artist pictured the boy at work on an essay entitled, "The Father of My Country."

Now Parker at 19 is heading towards a film career and sings very well. He was a gridiron athlete during school days.

Those who plan to take advantage of the extension granted by the council are urged to file immediately their affidavits of inability to pay.

Few Events Scheduled In Appleton This Month

Besides the weather, Appleton will have little else to keep it busy during March, a check of scheduled events shows. Few events of city-wide interest are planned, outside of a Community Artist series program, the annual Boy Scout financial drive, and several basketball games. The March terms of the court will open Monday, Dr. Otto Fliedler of Sheboygan will address the American Legion meeting in the evening. Pauline Koner, noted dancer, will appear at Memorial chapel Tuesday evening, the Gros Marionettes at the chapel Wednesday evening, and on Thursday evening the Jefferson school will present the operetta, "The Maid and the Golden Slipper" at Wilson Junior high school. The Wisconsin Industrial commission has scheduled meetings at city hall Tuesday and Wednesday.

JAPS CEASE WARFARE IN CHINESE AREA

Troops Ordered to Maintain Present Positions Outside Shanghai

Continued from page 1 to cease hostilities unless the Chinese begin hostile operations. In view of the evidences that the fighting was continuing, this was interpreted by observers here as distinctly different from the two preceding statements. "Resist Aggression" Dispatches from Nanking which reached here shortly after the first Japanese statement that the hostilities would be ended, said Chinese government leaders there had called for summoning all energies to be "turned toward resisting Japanese aggression."

"In view of the national crisis," the Chinese statement said, "all energies should be turned toward resisting Japanese aggression and the improvement of news transmission facilities so that the facts concerning the Japanese invasion may be exposed." These Nanking advices said Premier Wang Chung-wei and General Feng Yu-huang urged the government to grant an amnesty to all prisoners so they might be organized for military service or used as laborers. Chinese authorities here were keeping in close touch with the government at Nanking and late this afternoon they said fighting was continuing at Nanzhang and Luho where a strong Chinese detachment was opposing the Japanese.

They also said the fighting was continuing at Woosung, which Japanese claimed they captured this forenoon. Peace talks which were to have been held aboard the British cruiser Kent today apparently fell flat. Yasuke Matsuko, unofficial representative here of Premier Inukai and Foreign Minister Yoshizawa of Japan said no peace parleys were being held today or for the immediate future as far as he knew. Failure of the Chinese to outline a clear position as to what they would be able to do hindered informal peace efforts, he said. (Naozake Sato, Japanese representative at Geneva, told league of nations officials last night that peace parleys would begin at Shanghai today.)

Report On Casualties Japanese military officials said their forces suffered 700 casualties during the last three days of fighting and they estimated the Chinese losses at 10,000, saying they found 3,000 Chinese dead on the battlefield between Kiangwan and Tachang. During the battle at Woosung guns on nine Japanese war vessels in the river blazed continuously, pouring a steady rain of high explosive shells on the battered forts. At least two dozen field artillery guns and a squadron of bombing planes joined their thunderous fire to that of the warships.

The Japanese headquarters in a note south of Woosung, which yesterday was empty of armament, ostrich with guns of all sizes. When I arrived there this morning, on the last line to the rear was a battery of eight 6-inch howitzers, their gun crews waiting tensely for the signal to fire.

A few hundred yards farther ahead was a naval battery of light field guns, and still farther on, close to Woosung creek there was a row of army trench mortars. These artillery units went into action almost at the same time while the guns of the warships moving along the river bank also opened fire.

MORE RAIN OR SNOW PREDICTED FRIDAY

More rain or snow is forecast for Appleton and vicinity for today and Friday. Snow will be cloudy, and with winds blowing from the northeast, rain weather will undoubtedly prevail. Similar predictions have been forecast throughout the middle west for the next 24 hours. The mercury is due for a drop tonight and Friday. At 6 o'clock Thursday morning the thermometer registered 20 degrees above zero, and at noon it registered 33 degrees.

MAN SENT TO JAIL ON CHARGE OF ASSAULT Harvey Sangstock, a roomer at the Salvation Army headquarters, was sentenced to the county jail for five days by Judge Fred V. Heinemann in municipal court this morning when it was found guilty of assault and battery. He was unable to pay a fine of $5 and costs. Sangstock was arrested on complaint of Joseph Baurain, a worker at the Salvation Army.

GRAVEL ROADS IN COUNTY IN BAD CONDITION

Put 18 Teams to Work Grading Highways in Effort to Improve Them

Many gravel roads throughout Outagamie county, as well as throughout the Green Bay district of the state highway commission, are in an impassable condition as the result of the recent warm weather. F. R. Appleton, county highway commissioner, said this morning that unimproved county and state roads in this country are in the worst shape in three years. He said the premature spring breakup has brought the mud from the ground and alternate freezing and thawing weather has put several roads in an impassable condition.

Mr. Appleton advised motorists who are planning extensive trips over unimproved roads to secure accurate information about the condition of these roads by calling the highway office before they start. He said this precaution might prevent them from becoming mired in the mud somewhere in the rural districts. Highway 54, from Shiocton to New London, has been closed, Mr. Appleton said, and it is likely that sections of County Trunk B and State Trunks 76 and 156 also will be closed to traffic soon. In addition many other highways will be in poor condition as long as the warm weather continues.

Roads are Soft The soft condition of the roads as the result of the warm weather makes it impossible to use trucks for grading, Mr. Appleton said. As a result the highway department has hired 15 workers with teams and these are rapidly going over the roads and trying to put them in shape for use. N. P. Hayes, maintenance engineer of the Green Bay district, said that prevailing weather conditions have softened gravel roads throughout all sections of the districts. In some places the roads are impassable while in others the roads are passable but in extremely bad condition. Following is a complete report on road conditions in the district:

Highway 10 Bad Highway 10—Calumet-co, passable but bad going. Highway 22—Oconto-co to Shawano, passable, but hard going; Shawano to Marion fair, not broken yet. Highway 26—Fair in Shawano-co, with a few bad spots; detours in Winnebago-co reported good. Highway 29—Kewaunee-co very nearly impassable, may become so. Shawano-co fair but bad in spots. MAKE SETTLEMENT IN CRASH DAMAGE SUIT Settlement of $315 was effected in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg this morning in a suit for $2,500 brought by Rudolph Fischer, Appleton, against R. L. Goodman, Appleton and the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company. The case was settled before it came to trial because it was to have been tried before a jury.

Fischer sought damages for injuries he received while riding with Goodman in his car on S. Ouedast on the night of Sept. 9, 1931. The car was headed north when it slid and struck a telephone pole. Fischer charged Goodman's carelessness and negligent driving caused the accident. A daughter, Verona Mae was born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Ed King, 927 E. Washington st.

JAPAN HOPEFUL AFTER SHANGHAI CONFLICT ENDS

Tokio Not Looking for Immediate End of International Criticism

By Glenn Babb Copyright, 1932, Associated Press Tokyo (AP)—Japanese officialdom today faced westward to look more hopefully upon the procedure of the league of nations at Geneva, following an announcement that hostilities at Shanghai had ceased. The announcement of the cessation of fighting was made only an hour or two before the assembly at Geneva convened to work out a permanent settlement of the Sino-Japanese trouble.

The privy council and the cabinet, which have been at loggerheads over calling a special parliamentary session to approve an appropriation for the expense of the Shanghai expedition, also patched their differences during the afternoon and the special session of parliament was decided upon for March 18. At the same time the emperor and empress were hosts at luncheon at the imperial palace to the members of the Manchurian inquiry commission of the league of nations council, which is now on its way to China.

Regarding the league assembly session officials tonight took the position that the league asked to have the fighting at Shanghai stopped and that since it is now stopped, the way should be paved for authorizing a round table conference of all the interested powers at Shanghai to discuss the future status there. In official circles it was stated, however, that Japan does not expect the storm of international criticism of Japan's position to subside immediately.

Compromise on Demands The compromise between the cabinet and the privy council over the expense of the Shanghai campaign gave both sides a portion of their original demands. The cabinet yielded to the insistence of the council that the parliament be summoned, while the council approved an im-

4-H Club Girls Make Baby Layettes For County Needy

Miss Harriet Thompson, county home demonstration agent, today praised the activities of a group of girls who are members of the Wide Awake Forward 4-H club of the town of Greenville. This is the oldest club in the county, having been organized six years ago. The girls commended by Miss Thompson have been members of the club for six years and are this year taking up the project of sixth year sewing. The girls are making baby layettes, using materials purchased with money raised by the entire club. These layettes are then turned over to Miss Marie Klein, county nurse, for distribution among needy families of the county. The girls have already completed eight such layettes and they are now working on several more. Mrs. John Schoettler is leader of the club.

Several of the layettes are to be exhibited by the girls at the home economics short course at Wilson Junior high school here next week.

22 RENEWALS GRANTED BY PENSION COMMITTEE Twenty-two mothers pensions were renewed at a meeting of the county board pension committee yesterday afternoon at the courthouse. The board also granted six new pensions disallowed two, denied two more, and held one application open for further investigation.

Boston—The veery is a very, very nice bird but Massachusetts solons can't get excited over him. Rejecting a plan to make the veery, a kind of thrush, the official state bird, they said they'd rather have a fried chicken. Information reaching here indicated, officials said, that the Chinese armies were not annihilated, although they were badly shattered and their morale was low. They still comprised from 30,000 to 40,000 men. It was reported, and there was some conjecture here whether General Chiang Kai-Shek would seize an opportunity to disarm the defeated Cantonese. "The Shanghai mess has ended," a government spokesman said. "It is now unnecessary to arrange a truce." Japanese Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu at Shanghai cabled to the Japanese delegation at Geneva today that operations were halted at Shanghai and the safety of Japanese residents there assured. Officials here emphasized, however, that the proposed round table conference at Shanghai under consideration by the league must be confined to local Shanghai problems and not attempt to embrace larger pending Sino-Japanese problems.

CAPONE GANG BROKEN; CRIME WAR CONTINUES

George E. Q. Johnson, U. S.
District Attorney, Reveals Plans

BY ROBERT TALLEY
(Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)

Chicago—From behind his prison bars Al Capone today looks upon the wreckage of his vast business of wide-open gambling, bootleg liquor, protected vice and commercialized murder which in a few short years raised him from a cheap hoodlum to riches.

Today Capone sees a determined man who is preparing to smash the last vestige of his gang.

That man is United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson of Chicago—famous as "the man who convicted Al Capone"—and he told of his plans in an exclusive interview.

Within the next 60 days District Attorney Johnson is going to bring to trial 62 of Capone's henchmen now indicted for conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, in which each faces the possibility of a two-year penitentiary sentence and a $10,000 fine. The voluminous indictment charges 5,000 separate violations of federal prohibition.

Of these 62 defendants, the government is principally interested in about a dozen. These are "big shots"—like Joe Fusco and Jimmy Delaney—in the Capone liquor racket. Most of the rest are merely ruff-raff beer truck drivers, strong arm men and brewery workers who were arrested and indicted largely to establish connections in the evidence against the "big shots."

And how does the Capone gang stand in Chicago today? Like this, say federal investigators who know: AL CAPONE, now held in Cook county jail under a special 24-hour guard of deputy United States marshals and armed to break up Capone's reported managing of his bootleg industry from behind the bars. Capone is under sentence of 11 years in federal penitentiary, plus a $50,000 fine. His appeal from this sentence has been denied by the United States court of appeals and unless Capone's attorneys appeal to the supreme court, District Attorney Johnson is ready to move for a quick trip to Leavenworth.

RALPH CAPONE, brother of Al—now serving three years in federal prison.

FRANK NITTI, business manager of the Capone gang—now serving sentence of 18 months in penitentiary.

SAM GUZIK, Capone's gambling chief—now serving one year in penitentiary.

JACK GUZIK, the real brains of the Capone gang—under sentence of five years, free pending appeal.

"MACHINE GUN" JACK MCGURN, hired killer for Capone—under sentence of two years, appeal pending.

"WEST SIDE FRANKIE" POPE, Capone beer baron—under sentence of two years, appeal pending.

"MOPS" VOLPE, Capone's bodyguard—ordered deported to Italy, appeal pending.

TERRY DRUGGAN, Capone beer baron—in prison for 18 months.

FRANKIE LAKE, Capone beer baron—in prison for 15 months.

"One by one, they have been put away," Johnson said. "Soon, more may join them behind the bars."

GAMBLING RACKET—Capone has lost this; most of Chicago's gambling now has returned to the hands of the old-time gamblers who had it before he came on the scene.

LIQUOR RACKET—Still being carried on, but on a much smaller scale; depression and unemployment have had a lot to do with this.

VICE AND PROSTITUTION—This business is rampant, probably because a lot of women are out of work in these hard times.

"The most significant factor in the whole situation," says District Attorney Johnson, "is that the gangs have lost their old-time arrogance, which was appalling. They used to defy anybody and everybody. They felt they had nothing to fear from the law—that the only protection they needed was from the bullets of rivals. They believed that any case could be 'fixed'—and they continued to believe this right up to the time United States marshals led them off to the penitentiary. Then a great light began to dawn upon them."

In five years before District Attorney Johnson started his war there had been 300 unpunished gang murders in Chicago—that is, unpunished by law.

Then came the federal prosecutions of gangsters for failure to pay their income taxes. Investigation took many months, required the keenest detective work imaginable. Even after agents of Chief Elmer L. Trex's income tax secret service had wormed the evidence out of men connected with the gang, it was quite another thing to get them to testify in court against Capone and his men.

In the face of such obstacles as this, District Attorney Johnson turned to getting pleas of guilty—as any other prosecutor would. Out of this, came the agreement for Al Capone, himself, to plead guilty and get a two-year sentence and out of this came Federal Judge Wilkerson's refusal on the ground that "Al Capone can't bargain with a federal court."

Prosecutor Johnson then went to trial with Capone—and won. But in the meantime, there was whispered about the story that Johnson had accepted $75,000 in graft to permit Capone to plead guilty and get a lighter sentence was adroitly circulated in Chicago. Some people may have believed it; others said it was the cold-blooded attempt by gangsters to ruin a public official's reputation to save their own skins.

Leading Customs Tailors Meet To Set Styles For Men

Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press

New York—CPA—Several hundred leading custom tailors of the United States and Canada are in New York for the annual men's style show conducted by the New York Custom Cutters' club.

"The well tailored man gets the 'joe' is the slogan of this year's show," says the club's president. "Dress up for better times, say the tailors. It will help your morale and help business not only in America but throughout the world."

American tailoring for American men is also emphasized at the style show. New York become the men's fashion center of the western world, a leading New York tailor said, adding: "London fashions and London tailoring are not as becoming to the American man as those created at home. Few Americans look well in English clothes. The American tailor understands his countryman's style and temperament, and recognizes the difference in stand and stride between the Englishman and the American, which seem to require different features of tailoring."

Among the editors of distinctive tailoring and correct attire stressed by the custom cutters are the following: greater sophistication and youthfulness in men's attire; more attention to formal and appropriate clothing, as shown in increased wearing of cutaway coat for formal day wear, and the dress coat for formal evening wear; wider acceptance of the directors suit; a business cutaway for dignified business wear; wider latitude in patterns, including stripes, checks and plaids; lighter and brighter tones in colorings, including mouse gray, tawny, tweed, Norfolk and white tropical dinner suits; increasing acceptance of the newly introduced "best suit" fashioned in subdued colored cashmeres, in blues, purples, greens, browns, maroons, and mulberry with silk-faced rolling shawl collar; and greater formality in hats, collars, shirts, gloves, mufflers, suspenders, canes, umbrellas, jewelry, ties, and shoes.

The Age of FAT Need No Longer Be Feared

Soon after 30, multitudes of people gain excess fat. Many at earlier ages. A great reason lies in a weakened gland, which largely controls nutrition. Food that should create fuel and energy goes to fat.

Since this discovery, doctors the world over feed this gland factor to the over-fat. Slender figures all around you are due to this method now.

In Tablet Form

Marmola prescription tablets present this new-day method in ideal form. A famous laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. The results are seen in every circle. Those slender figures, now so common, are not due to starving.

Every box contains the formula. So users know, and doctors know, just how Marmola acts. You are taking in Marmola what the best physicians use.

Fight fat in this modern way. Combat the cause. Take Marmola—four tablets daily—until weight comes down to normal. As the fat goes, watch your vim come back. Then tell your friends what did it. Don't wait longer—start this right way now.

THE HONOR OF JAPAN
There is something taking place in Asia more important to the future of the world than spilled blood, because, if confidence in treaties trickles away the world must face a blanched and ghastly future.

This country has always been interested in the so-called "Open Door" policy in respect to China, not alone because of the equality of opportunity it would give the United States in that land, but because any other doctrine with any land can lead to nothing but oppression and, eventually, armed strife.

This Open Door policy was inaugurated by this country in 1899 when John Hay, its secretary of state, enunciated such policy to put at an end the struggle then going on for "spheres of influence" in China, which, permitted to go its natural course, must have meant the dismemberment of the Flowery Kingdom.

At that time Mr. Hay announced: "The policy of the government of the United States is to seek a solution which may bring about permanent safety and peace to China, preserve China's territorial and administrative entity, protect all rights guaranteed to friendly powers by treaty and international law, and safeguard for the world the principle of equal and impartial trade with all parts of the Chinese Empire."

To these principles the other great powers consented and for a period of twenty years such Open Door policy was permitted to operate practically without restriction.

In 1922 the so-called "Nine Power Treaty," with the purpose of giving precision and exactitude to the principles mentioned, became a written document to which was given the official sanction of the United States, Belgium, the British Empire, China, France, Italy, Japan, The Netherlands and Portugal, since which time the same treaty has been signed by Norway, Bolivia, Sweden, Denmark and Mexico. Germany has also signed it but the Reichstag has not yet ratified the signature.

It will therefore be seen that Japan, among others, definitely, and in so many careful and exact words, agreed:

"(1) To respect the sovereignty, the independence and the territorial and administrative integrity of China . . . (4) to refrain from taking advantage of conditions in China in order to seek special rights or privileges which would abridge the rights of subjects or citizens of friendly states and from countenancing action inimical to the security of such states."

That this treaty actually came into existence and that the government at Washington was largely instrumental in its writing tends to disclose the close touch with which our government keeps in contact with all world affairs and the likelihood that it foresaw the possibility of encroachment in the East and attempted by all legitimate means at its command to forestall and thwart any nation that might be actuated by imperialistic designs from taking advantage of China's sorry plight.

In 1928 there came into existence the Kellogg-Briand treaty. This treaty prologuedly published and proclaimed to an expectant world that all those who became signatory to it, Japan among others, would henceforth renounce war as a measure for the settlement of international disputes and difficulties.

Japan, therefore, now stands at the bar of public opinion, not only indicted, but with a prima facie case made against her. Putting the situation in the clear language of Secretary Stimson in his recent letter to Senator Borah,

"It is not necessary in that connection to inquire into the causes of the controversy, or attempt to apportion the blame between the two nations which are unlawfully involved, for, regardless of cause or responsibility it is clear beyond peradventure, that a situation has developed which cannot under any circumstances, be reconciled with the obligations of the covenants of these two treaties, and that if the treaties had been faithfully observed such a situation could not have arisen."

And what is Japan's justification, her side of the case? She claims that she had, which is true, certain property and treaty rights in Manchuria and that the condition of outlawry there prevailing was tantamount to a nullification of her rights. She, therefore, entered Manchuria.

Exasperated at the Chinese boycott in retaliation for this act, but without formally declaring war, as though she were still abiding by the Kellogg pact, she has struck at Shanghai.

In the propaganda which she is sending out over the world and which has been received at the Post-Crescent, she attempts to justify her action because of the almost hopeless revolution and series of revolutions that have convulsed China for over twenty years. Incidentally her attack may be a benefit to China in exposing to all Chinese factions the necessity of dropping their differences and uniting against the common foe. But this is a mere incident of the fray and does not and cannot justify the Japanese breach of faith with the rest of the world.

Her foreign minister, Yoshizawa, declared that it would be both impossible and undesirable to repudiate the Nine Power Treaty (as though it considered the advisability of such a reprehensible program) but that such treaty was not a sufficient guard to international dealings with China, and "in the present distracted state of that country, ravaged as it is by the rival ambitions of contending militarists, the scheme of the Nine Power Treaty has become inadequate . . . Therefore, while Japan is fully determined to live up to the provisions of the treaty as far as they go, she feels they do not go very far . . . The defect in the treaty is that it envisaged China not as it was but as the powers thought it ought to be."

Perhaps it was Japan that was not envisaged accurately. Somehow this sort of a slippery answer does not sound as manly even as Bethmann-Hollweg's famous statement to the British ambassador at Berlin concerning the making of war over a treaty, "a mere scrap of paper."

To agree, as provided in the Kellogg pact, not to make war, and then to send an army into China without a declaration of war and term the whole affair "a punitive expedition" is characteristically Oriental, but when the Japanese begin to perform sleight of hand tricks of this character they will find themselves not dealing with children and that sophistry and casuistry and the smashing of substances for the preservation of form will make no headway with the rest of the world.

From the time that President Diaz was expelled from Mexico, and for a period of about twenty years that unhappy land too, like China, was drenched in blood and saw nothing approaching peace or order. The economic conditions created by these tumults to the south of us hurt this country materially. The forays made by Mexican guerrilla bands across our borders even to the extent of blasting bank vaults in Texas and New Mexico and killing American citizens saw no conduct upon our part similar to Japanese action in China. Only with the consent of the Mexican government, and with its direct approval, did we send in an armed force under General Pershing to try and head off Villa, the marauder; and when it was found that he could not be captured we withdrew.

It must be said in favor of American statesmanship, and particularly the kind spread abroad by the lamented Ambassador Morrow, that patience, sympathy and friendly efforts upon our part did more for peace in Mexico and the future of the Mexican people than any army could do, however formidable.

Washington has notified Japan that it will not recognize any situation, treaty or agreement entered into by that country with China, whether the latter be prostrate or not, in violation of the Nine Power Treaty and the Kellogg-Briand pact. It is expected that other nations of the world will take the same forward looking position. Japan must learn that the fruits of brigandage, and brigand she is at Shanghai, will never ripen into the maturity of title, that she may expend what she desires and when she is enfeebled by her efforts the other nations will make her disgorge.

That looks like a sensible program. At least for a change in the methods that nations have pursued when their treaty rights have been violated in the past, it is worthy of a trial.

Seven ex-monarchs living in exile are estimated to possess between them $75,000,000. Of this total, the ex-Kaiser, who is the richest German, owns more than $82,500,000.

THAT was what is known as an honest-to-gosh new story yesterday . . . we mean about young Lindbergh . . . his kidnapping called for more printer's ink than any other child-stealing affair we've heard about . . . as this was written the news was still quite fresh . . . what may have developed by the time this gets to press was not for us to figure out . . . we haven't any connection with the word prophet, no matter how you spell it . . . picking the Lindbergh baby as a kidnapping prospect doesn't strike us as such a hot idea . . . Pa Lindbergh has some shekels, granted, about five million of them . . . but there are other people with money whose children are less popular with the public and government officials than Charles Augustus Junior . . . unless the whole thing is a hoax, somebody is in for a terrifically tough time . . .

Three Cents Would Be a Gift

To assist the state through financial straits, New York State has increased its gasoline tax to the unheard of level of THREE CENTS A GALLON! The N'Yawkers will murmur protests.

Tsk, tsk and tsk. Father Knickerbocker should take a trip out to the state just west of Lake Michigan.

The current depression, we hear, isn't so bad after all, in fact it's only fifth in severity compared to other depressions. Believe it or not, folks, the country got through periods which were much worse than this one. But of course if you'd rather not believe that, don't cheer up.

Congress is summoning all the dramatic critics to Washington to find out about the charges that d. c.'s criticism is harmful to the theatre.

At present no mention has been made of a congressional investigation of newspaper columnists whose criticism has been harmful to Congress, however.

Well, if Congress wanted to get the newspaper columnists to Washington for an investigation, Congress would have to pay the expenses. And dearie, Congress just doesn't pay THOSE expenses.

Guy Sundt, assistant coach at Wisconsin and in line for the head coaching position, has announced that he won't take the job without a substantial increase in salary. The other day we mentioned that Guy was a smart fellow and knew his way around Madison which, whether he's a coach or not, is more than half the job. Today we repeat, Guy is still a smart fellow and knows his way around Madison.

And Succeed

With kidnappings holding so much attention just now, it's interesting to note that an attempt to kidnap Mrs. Morton Downey was made recently. It was unsuccessful.

Why oh why didn't they try to kidnap Morton?

BURDEN BEARER

There's always one to bear the load. To play the guide along life's road And plan and fashion every act To keep the family intact. In every home there's always one To hold the faith and carry on.

The burden bearer day by day Beholds the others dance and play, And struggles not to let them see How weary she has grown to be. Of keeping house and holding on. And sometimes being imposed upon.

Good angel of the home is she Who braves the tasks of two or three, And puts her own desires aside. For family love and family pride. And suffers many a hurt and ache With courage for the others' sake.

Without her fortitude and grace The home would be a sadder place. Without her faith and strength of will, Her love for all through good and ill, Her patient and devoted care The home were desolate and bare. (Copyright, 1932, Edgar A. Guest)

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

IT IS WISE TO RESPECT TONSILLITIS

In a convalescent camp during the war it was found that the average length of time required for a young man to get back into fit condition after an attack of simple tonsillitis was a month.

How many older men and women feel that it is necessary to take two or three weeks vacation after an attack of tonsillitis?

Sometimes I think that one is rather lucky if a sore throat proves to be diphtheria, for in that case the immediate treatment and the after-treatment and convalescence will be more carefully managed. Everybody respects diphtheria, even if it be only health board diphtheria.

Again I think a reasonable amount of diphtheria in the community is a blessing, since it serves to make us respect a sore throat or makes us afraid to neglect it.

When we think of all the tragic instances where such diseases as infantile paralysis and meningitis have been mistaken for tonsillitis we begin to comprehend how foolish it is for any layman to attempt to make a diagnosis of a complaint of sore throat.

It is not merely the sequels of tonsillitis, such as endocarditis (valvular disease) and chronic arthritis, but also the complications which so often develop in the height of the otherwise minor illness, that should compel greater respect than physicians and laity give this common illness.

Acute infectious or septic endocarditis (inflammation of heart lining), acute peritonsillitis (inflammation of throat covering), acute chorea (St. Vitus's dance), acute multiple infectious arthritis (inflammatory rheumatism, rheumatic fever), and acute pleurisy or pneumonia are some of the complications which are definitely more likely to develop when the tonsillitis patients attempts to keep up and about or to "fight it off" or to return to school or to work too soon.

Feeling is one way to contract tonsillitis, and you need not kiss the person with tonsillitis to catch it; you needn't even select a person with cr, for any fairly healthy carrier of a vigorous colony of streptococci, staphylococci, pneumococci or a complication of these germs will do.

Many health authorities believe, but I do not, that shaking hands is an important mode of infection. In my opinion this is very rarely if ever the way any known respiratory infection spreads. The usual mode of infection with tonsillitis, as with all the other respiratory infections, is through direct explanation of the germs in the spray from the nose and mouth when the patient or the person coming down with the disease or harboring the germs coughs, sneezes, laughs or talks.

Theoretically the frequent or regular use of antiseptic mouthwashes or gargles might prevent such trouble as tonsillitis. Practically there is no evidence that this practice is worth while.

Practically, however, it seems to me that if the victim reports to his physician immediately upon feeling the first hint of sore throat, a direct application of some such heroic disinfectant as silver nitrate solution (unar caustic), too strong for a patient or a layman to apply with safety, prevents or aborts the attack in some cases.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Not Venturing to Dispute
Sure I have seen a statement in your column to the effect that whisky is a sedative. I am not pretending to dispute . . . (H. C. Lightner)

Answer—But just to enlighten me a bit, what? I am fairly certain you saw no such assertion in my column. If you did, I didn't write it. What I did say was that whisky is NOT a stimulant, but rather a depressant. That is a scientific fact which no one can dispute. A physician may administer alcohol as a narcotic or in very limited quantity as a fuel. Only in Victorian fiction is whisky or brandy stimulant.

RUSSO-GERMAN PEACE SIGNED
On March 3, 1918, heavy German assaults on the French lines in the Champagne sector of the western front were beaten off after several hours of sharp combat.

It was one of the heaviest engagements of the year. Allied observers believed the German divisions recently brought from the Russian front were used in the attack.

An Austrian attack on the Italian front in the Frenzella valley was stopped by an Italian barrage.

German planes dropped several bombs on Petrograd, killing three persons and injuring five.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York—It's not out-of-towners you see walking along Broadway munching that popcorn, offered for sale in those little stands, says Pinkie, the popcorn man.

Your up-to-date provincial has the notion that when he comes here he must strive for an attitude of sophistication—of being "in the know." He doesn't patronize the Rialto's doughnut foundry, according to Pinkie's theory, and he feels that if he should be seen under the bright lights carrying a sack of popcorn he most certainly would be taken for a yokel.

"Course I don't ask each guy that comes in here where he comes from," says Pinkie. "But I judges by de way day talks. I'd say most of our customers was hatched right here, and not all of 'em is from de Bronx, eider."

It's nothing unusual for formally dressed theater-goers to drop by for their popcorn after the show. That's coach-Bab, they haven't taken to buying their popcorn before they go into the theater, for there's enough noise from chewing gum poppers and candy gnawers to account for a large share of the disturbances in the orchestra.

Stands Pop Up
As usual, a single shop appeared in the Longacre square area, with a specialty—popcorn. It got a big play right off the bat. So before you and I could get a good night's sleep other popcorn stands sprouted along the Rialto.

One firm of brothers in the theater speculation business was just about to fade out of the picture. The brothers decided to get a popcorn machine. Now they can eat beefsteak until a new racket comes along.

The worst feature of the fad, from the standpoint of ye experienced popcorn muncher, is that all the stands are putting some sort of syrup or molasses on the product. We connoisseurs, who have patronized the stands under the circus canvas and on Main street, know that the sweetening ruins the stuff.

Come to think about it, maybe that's the reason out-of-towners are giving Broadway popcorn stands the go-by.

Pool Sharks
It seems that pool sharks are preying upon the unsuspecting patrons of the local halls, more than ever before.

A crowd of us dropped into a pool room near Times square the other day to watch two friendly enemies settle a long standing argument as to their skill with cues.

Near the tournament table sat an unshaven fellow, who was soon trying to butt his way into the party.

"Say, young fellow, what time is it?" he asked Paul, who was chalking his cue.

"There's a clock over there," Paul snorted. Sure enough, there was a clock, but the intruder persisted: "Is that the right time?"

Neither of our claimants for supremacy would pay further heed to him, so the fellow grunted and ambled off.

Paul, who usually plays pool under more ornate rooms, explained: "That bird is typical. You can find them in any pool hall in New York. They try to talk their way into a game, suggest a little bet, and before you realize it you find you're playing against a runner-up to the champion."

Barbs

Yet, industrial leaders say business has scraped bottom and now is ready for a rise. Of course it may dig in a little.

Whisky is said to be gaining popularity as a toothache cure. Which shows that dentists aren't pulling for prohibition.

Philadelphia may abolish movie censors. Despite high advertising rates, henceforth colorful shows will just have to weather along on their own.

Oklahoma sent 15 more state guardsmen into the oil fields. Al-falfa Bill isn't going to be kept off page one by any Oriental fracas.

In fact, if this Sino-Jap trouble gets much worse, Al-falfa Bill may have to do something rash: like declaring the business curve depends on busties.

Speaker Garner rode to that brilliant White House reception in a "twenty-cent taxicab." Wonder if he told Mrs. Hoover he was glad to meter?

There may still be some argument as to who won the World War, but there's little doubt left as to who will pay for it.

Books Are Reviewed By Miss Reely

A number of outstanding books of the year were reviewed and discussed by Miss Mary Katherine Reely, Madison, chairman of the book selection department of the Wisconsin Library Commission, at the meeting of Appleton branch, American Association of University Women, Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Elmer Jennings, 1224 E. North-st. Her program was divided into two parts, biography and history.

"Letters of Ellen Terry and Bernard Shaw" was the first book reviewed. In this Ellen Terry is pictured as a successful actress on the London stage while Bernard Shaw is a young journalist from Dublin. The letters show the history of drama in England, and how Shaw idolized Ellen Terry although he saw her only a few times and corresponded with her for 25 years. The second book in this group was "Fannie Kemble" by Bobe. This described the Civil war period and the struggling soul of an abolitionist against a slave owner husband. "Jennie Lind," a story of the Swedish nightingale, was described as more of a rare character sketch than a biography.

The interesting life of Sarah S. Hale, her struggle as a writer to support her family, and later her career as editor of a magazine are told in "God's Lady Book." She became a powerful figure in opening many educational institutions to women, especially medical schools.

The second group reviewed by Miss Reely included "Epoch of America" by James T. Adams, which the American ideal of a poor man advancing on his own merits to wealth and fame. "Columbus Came Late" by Gregory Mason, an archaologist, bewails the American tendency to study ancient civilization in foreign lands rather than seeking native American culture in South America and Mexico.

For her last book, Miss Reely chose one on current history, "Only Yesterday," by Frederick Allen, taking in the years from 1919 to 1929. This is a social history describing a typical American family through the years of gangsters, radio, sensational newspapers, the flight of the Lone Eagle, and the stock market crash in 1929.

Miss Blanche McCarthy gave a report on the international relations study group which has been studying the Manchurian situation and will soon start work on the Hitler movement in Germany. Mrs. H. H. Ellis reported on the motion picture "Arrowsmith," which the local branch will sponsor this month. The picture is based on Sinclair Lewis' novel of devotion to the medical science and human welfare.

The money raised from the sale of tickets for this picture will be used for the scholarship fund. Tickets may be obtained from any member.

Believes Public Likes To Hear Mispronunciations

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press
Hollywood—(CPA)—It is the theory of Ernst Lubitsch, the director, that the American public likes to hear Maurice Chevalier mispronounce the English language because so many of the American public mispronounce it themselves. "Me, I do not speak English good when I arrive to this country," Lubitsch admitted today, with a twinkle in his eye, "But now I speak him fine."

He went on to explain that perfection in anything causes envy. Chevalier wouldn't be half as popular if he talked English without errors and without the wrong accent. "It is no secret to stage or fiction," continued Lubitsch in his own delightful version of the American accent, "that characters which have the same faults as the audience or the readers are the most popular."

"Of course the ideas about English words which Chevalier holds are pretty different from the everyday mistakes made by people born in America. But his mistakes in English appeal subconsciously to those

WOULD USE TREES SHRUBS TO BLOCK DRIFTING OF SNOW

MADISON—(CP)—Trees and shrubs will replace ugly wooden fences to keep Wisconsin's highways cleared of snow if experiments to be conducted by the state highway commission are successful.

John C. Schmidtman, vice chairman of the commission, revealed here that the commission has under consideration a series of state wide experiments on the use of trees and shrubs in checking snow drifts.

"Trees are less expensive and more practical to combat the snow menace to highways than are wooden snow fences, and would add immeasurably to the beauty of Wisconsin highways," he said.

Mr. Schmidtman pointed out that the service of an experienced landscape architect and an engineer are available to any body wishing to beautify highways in Wisconsin. Highway beautification, he added, will not add much to the cost of highway maintenance. He said there is strong sentiment throughout the state for more scenic highways.

"We must remember that tourists from outside Wisconsin spend $140,000,000 in the state each year and that more than half of it is attracted by the beauty of our woods and lakes and rivers," he said. "If we were to spend the money for another highway, we probably would find that these spend another $140,000,000 to enjoy the scenic beauty of Wisconsin."

APPLETON WOMEN COOPERATE IN NATIONAL MOVE

Business and Professional women in the city lead the women's clubs associated with the National Council of Women who are supporting a country-wide appeal to establish an International Congress of Women at the Chicago World's Fair in 1933.

YOUNG DANCER HERE ON TUESDAY NIGHT

Program at Chapel Next Week Closes Community Artist Series

Despite her tremendous absorption in her work, Pauline Koner, dancer who will perform Tuesday evening at Memorial chapel, is a normal, healthy young girl who in her spare time plays golf, swims, ice-skates and enjoys parties and people as much as any other person of her age, charm and vitality.

Miss Koner is a good pianist and has a fine singing voice. She creates her own dances, chooses her own music, and in many cases arranges or composes the music for her interpretations. She designs her own costumes which are usually executed by her mother.

With her work as a Spanish dancer, she has become an exceedingly skilled castanet player. Her character dances are so dramatic and picturesque that if she should ever give up her dancing she could easily go on the speaking stage.

According to the New York Herald Tribune: "She is lovely to look at, with a beauty suggestive of older races and other times. She has a superior sense of rhythm, a graceful, full tractable body, a fine understanding of design and form, a flair for character. There was one dancer on her program which remains the actual peak of the entire dance season thus far, in its originality of design and involution, the keen and poetic style of its performance. A personality which is provocative and individual."

The Sun called attention to "her hands which are one of her greatest assets. Her use of this is a lesson for that large group of dance interpreters to whom they are simply embarrassing appendages."

Be Gracious In Dealing With Child

BY ANGELO PATRI

Children learn manners from us. They learn speech from us. I do not mean that they learn to talk because they hear us talking, but that they use the words we use, the phrases we use, when they find the need of them.

One day a new pupil came to kindergarten. He was a sturdy little boy, quick and intelligent. The teacher was pleased to have him and set him at a table with a group near his own age. He caught ideas quickly and was helping build a house with all the assurance of an old hand but the teacher noticed that the other children soon left him and began a project of their own.

"Why didn't you stay with Billy?" "We don't like him."

"Oh, that's too bad. What's the matter?"

"He doesn't talk nicely to us. He says very rude things."

The teacher watched and listened but Billy worked along by himself for the remainder of the play period and nothing was heard from him until the circle was formed for story time. The teacher was in the midst of telling the story of Red Riding Hood, at the most exciting part when Billy jumped up from his chair, leaned toward her excitedly and shouted, "Shut up. Let me talk. 'N then she walked in 'n the old Wolf ate her up."

The children and teacher were too stunned to move or speak for a second or two and then the teacher said, "We'll march, shall we, children?"

"Yes, Miss Helen," and away they went, Billy striding proudly along, racing out of line now and again to get ahead of a couple of children in the vain idea of becoming the leader. The circle of marching children made that impossible and his dashes and darts were funny enough to watch but irritating to the children who followed him, and drew back at his approach.

When Miss Helen had a chance she talked to Billy. He was quite unconscious of having made a mistake and she let it pass without saying anything to him about it. She visited his home soon afterward. There were three older children and Billy and their mother in the room. All the children were talking at once, each trying to down the other. When the teacher came in the mother greeted her pleasantly but as nobody could hear anything in the noise that was going on she shouted, "Shut up. Let me talk."

Then the teacher understood what was the matter with Billy. He was not being ill mannered, selfish and crude consciously. He was doing his best with the material he had. He didn't know how to speak graciously, he didn't know how to get along with other children or with grown people. He had never heard anything but the crudest forms of speech. His education would have to commence with his mother's.

Do you ever say, to a child, "Shut up," when you want to speak? When you would like him to move from one chair to another do you say "Get up. I want to pass?" When you want to ask him to do an errand do you say, "Get me a newspaper?" If you do your child will have the same form of address and people will shun him like the plague. Be gracious in your speech and manner to little children because you are furnishing them with the words and the tones and the accents and the gestures they are going to use some day. It counts, my, how it counts, when a child is gracious in speech and manner.

Ma. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamp, addressed envelope for reply.

CLAIM SLAM BID IS PROOF OF VALUE OF CULBERTSON SYSTEM

Hand Cited to Contract Bidding With That of Opponents in Tournament

BY TOM O'NEIL
New York—(CP)—A slam in the Eastern bridge championship on cards with which opponents contracted only for game is regarded by exponents of the Culbertson system as showing its superiority. The hand:

North	South
S-A Q 10	S-A Q 10
D-A J 5 3	D-A J 5 3
C-10 8 2	C-10 8 2
C-A K 6	C-A K 6
West	East (Dealer)
S-K 9	S-7 5 3 2
H-K Q J 7 6 5	H-9 4
D-9	D-8 7 6 2
C-J 10 9 3	C-7 4 2

When members of the Culbertson team held the north and south cards the bidding went:

East pass; south one diamond; west one heart; north three clubs; east pass; south three no trump; west pass; north five diamonds; east pass; south six clubs; west pass; north six diamonds, the contract.

In the team of four competition two members of a team play the same cards at one table as their opponents hold at the other table.

Differ In Bidding

When members of the "four horsemen" held the north and south cards the bidding was: East pass; south pass; west one heart; north double; east pass; south one spade; west pass; north two no trump; east pass; south three no trump, the contract.

Mrs. Culbertson made a little slam in diamonds. Willard S. Karn took 13 tricks at no trump, the bid being only three.

Here was the reasoning of the Culbertson team: South has a good original bid, totaling three honor tricks under the Culbertson system, with a biddable suit in diamonds. Though only four cards in length the diamonds have 13 honor tricks. North has 3 honor tricks, justifying a forcing takeout indicating slam possibilities. An increase of the diamond contract by north at once would fail to show partner the strength of the hand. No trump is dangerous because of the heart weakness. On the second round of bidding south offers three no trump to show the diamonds are hardly strong enough to bid again, then north shows assistance for a diamond contract by bidding five. South now shows support for clubs, but north, having bid clubs as his only means of indicating strength, takes the contract into diamonds.

As the Culbertson team understood their opponents' methods, south passed on the first round because the horsemen's one-over-one method requires an original bid to be much stronger than does the Culbertson system. This is due to the fact that partner of an original bidder answers with much weaker holdings than do Culbertsonites. In response to north's double south showed his four card major and the contract stopped at three no trump because of west's bid of hearts and the meagre stopper in the south hand.

At no trump 12 tricks were taken because of the successful spade finesse. Had the king of spades been in the east hand the three no trump contract would have been set. So too would have the six diamond contract, but the penalty might have been less.

St. Paul—Gov. Alfalfa Bill likes a play on words occasionally. Asked what he'd do if he wasn't nominated for the presidency, he said: "Well, then I would still be a Democrat but a mighty still one."

cause of west's bid of hearts and the meagre stopper in the south hand. At no trump 12 tricks were taken because of the successful spade finesse. Had the king of spades been in the east hand the three no trump contract would have been set. So too would have the six diamond contract, but the penalty might have been less.

Hollywood Has Developed New Type Of Adventurer

Hollywood—(CPA)—A new kind of adventure has been developed, and Hollywood is its producer. Once upon a time the explorer and scientist took the risks but now the camera man has joined them and his risk is double their because no matter into what kind of a jam he gets he must save his film as well as his neck.

Explorers are still poking about into the unknown portions of the world in the interests of geography or commerce and the new type of camera man is going them one better. He wants angles on native life and customs. He obtains them by taking risks no sane explorer would run. At the present moment, in search of romantic adventure, pictures Hollywood has its cameras in the most of the dangerous spots of the globe.

Leonard Fields is in the thick of the fighting at Shanghai, photographing it for the R-K-O studios. Captain F. E. Klein Schmidt is just back from three years in the very far north, with pictures of seal and walrus fights, avalanches and eskimos, for release through independent producers.

Elmer Clifton, independent producer, sent Otto Lederer to Europe for the film Sven Hodin brought back from Tibet, called "The Living God of the Mongols." And for a remarkably different film of Palestine entitled "The City of Faith." Clifton has also acquired a film on life in India and another on the head hunters of the Amazon. These films represent almost incredible hardships, not only surmounting of obstacles but likewise the surviving of disasters. The film on "The Living God of the Mongols" shows Tibet in all its primitive beauty and savagery. Its wild blizzards and wilder dust storms. It is a question whether the photographs of the great lama, who is "The Living God," or of the grotesque wrestlers—neither of them ever before filmed—are the more interesting from an educational and entertainment viewpoint. But there's no doubt about the interest attaching to the blizzards and dust storms, with camels dying by the score. They are no less interesting as a sidelight on the kind of real adventure which synthetic Hollywood is presenting to a world that had thought adventurers were pretty nearly obsolete outside of a movie set.

CITY GETS $17,900 STATE STREET AID

A check for $17,900, Appleton's state aid on streets, has been received by F. E. Bachman, city treasurer. Because of an increase in mileage and a change in the law governing state aid, Appleton's appropriation was increased by over $10,000. Last year $7,405 was received.

In the past $100 a mile was paid by the state; this year each mile of street in use brings $200. Last year Appleton received aid on 74 miles, but through a recheck a few months ago by the engineering department the city now draws aid on 89 miles, which results in $3,000 extra help.

ASK CITIZENS TO SIGN PLEDGE TO FREE MONEY

Workers in Bond Sale Campaign Meet Friday Evening at Neenah

Neenah—That the men who have volunteered to give of their time and efforts to make for a renewal of better conditions in Neenah for labor and business are on their toes and ready to go and make Neenah a shining example for all other Wisconsin cities in the renewal of good times, is amply demonstrated by the alacrity and thoroughness with which they have organized for the bond campaign which will be under way in Neenah next Monday morning, according to those in charge.

On that day fully 100 citizens will start forth on their good will campaign to demonstrate not only to Neenah residents, but to all Wisconsin, that there is no better city for living conditions, and for community welfare than this.

And when their labors are finished—no matter whether in one day or in one week, every citizen will have been given an opportunity to cooperate to the extent at least, of indicating that they are in sympathy with the effort of the government to restore good times to every community in the United States.

And this does not mean the purchase of any bonds unless they are so inclined, but each and every citizen of Neenah will be asked to give expression to their cooperation with the movement by signing the following:

Here is Resolution "To the Neenah committee, CITIZENS' RECONSTRUCTION ORGANIZATION:

It is my desire insofar as within my power to cooperate to the fullest extent with the Citizens' Reconstruction organization of the United States in order that idle money in this community may be brought back into circulation to stimulate the return of credit and business to a normal basis.

I hereby pledge my support and by using my influence with others to the end that idle money in this community may be brought back into circulation, out to work in worthwhile efforts or used in the purchase of United States Treasury certificates."

There is no obligation for the purchase of bonds attached to this little pledge, and the purpose of it is simply so that each citizen will use his influence with those who may have money that is not drawing interest, to purchase some of the U. S. Government Bonds, and the denominations of $50, $100 and $500, drawing 2 per cent accrued interest.

So instead of having people keep their money in a deposit box or at home, where it is drawing no interest, the U. S. government has issued these Baby Bonds, that will at least give the purchaser 3 per cent interest with absolute guarantee of safety.

That is the entire plan of the present campaign, viz.—to have the people realize that it is far better for them to get a small rate of interest direct from the U. S. Government, rather than obtain no interest at all, which is the case when their money is kept in hiding.

Friday Night's Meeting At 7:30 Friday evening in the basement of the Neenah club, all chairmen, captains and team workers to the number of 100 or more will gather to receive complete instructions from State Chairman F. J. Sensenbrenner, City Chairman D. K. Brown, and Vice Chairman Sam K. Pickard.

HOLDUP ACTION TO DETERMINE OWNERS OF LAND

Lake Shore Property Question Won't Be Settled at Present Time

Neenah—The city council met Wednesday evening with all aldermen present except Ebert.

The special committee appointed by the mayor some time ago to determine the ownership of the strip of land east of the road along the lakeshore between E. Wisconsin ave. and Kimberly Point park, recommended not to institute proceedings until a time comes when people who claim the strip some of the property ask the city for improvements.

Mrs. Stuart demanded that a clean title be secured to the property by the city so that the few residents in that vicinity cannot demand the closing of the street and road for their own purposes. Alderman Aylward, however, moved the report be accepted and placed on file, and it was so disposed of. Mrs. Stuart last year purchased the point at the north end of the road and donated it to the city in memory of her father, the late J. A. Kimberly. It was her intention to see that the road is always kept open.

It was reported that the city physician does not publish milk tests taken of milk distributed in the city. It was said however, that he would supply the board of health with the data so it could publish the results in the daily papers.

The resignation of Robert Ebert as alderman from the Third ward, who said he was out of the city a great deal of the time, was accepted. Owing to the closeness of the spring election, election of an alderman to fill the vacancy will be deferred until that time. Two aldermen will now have to be elected in that ward.

To Purchase Bonds On motion of Alderman John Stulp, the city will purchase U. S. certificates of short time loan with some of the surplus money which it has on hand. The clerk and treasurer will make necessary arrangements to make the purchase.

Alderman Aylward moved that the mayor and attorney represent the city at the hearing on March 22 at Milwaukee at which chain theatres and film companies will be questioned. The Neenah theatre is an example of the independent closed door movement alleged to be in existence, which is to be investigated by the state. It was said by the mayor.

Mayor Sande asked that the unemployment relief committee, which was appointed recently to assist in taking care of the needy who are out of work, be made permanent to work in conjunction with the poor committee and board of public works in regulating conditions. He also asked that an appropriation of $4,000 be made to this committee from the $9,000 state aid which was received recently. This would be employed as a working fund for use through the unemployment office, the bills incurred to come through the same channels as those incurred by the poor department. The committee is composed of Max Schalk, Leo Schubart, Nathan Bergstrom, C. B. Clark, S. F. Shattuck, Charles Korvick, Dr. George Williamson and Henry Jung, with the mayor at the head.

The bid of the Standard Oil company to furnish road oil at three and fifty-eight hundredths cents a gallon was accepted, and the clerk was authorized to enter into contract with this company for from two to three carloads.

Mayor Sande officially thanked the Daughters of the American Revolution for the picture of George Washington, copy of the Declaration of Independence and the constitution, which this society recently presented to the city. On motion of Alderman Marxan, a vote of thanks was extended by the entire council.

Bills totaling $16,111.45 were approved. Reports from the police department, justices and poor departments of expenditures during the past month were placed on file.

"In a telegram received from Col. Knox, he informs me that he has information from the statistical department of the federal reserve bank that since this national publicity began, $12,000,000 of currency has been returned to circulation. ROTARIANS HEAR TALK ON COST OF GOVERNMENT

Chester D. Seiftenberg Suggests Remedies for Increasing Expenses

Menasha—"The most important service a public officer can render is the reawakening of a sound and abiding public interest and knowledge about government in all its forms and activities, Chester D. Seiftenberg, Oshkosh, told the Menasha Rotary club at a meeting in Hotel Menasha Wednesday noon.

Speaking on the rising cost of government, Seiftenberg quoted Silas Stawn, former president of the American Bar association who said that "The burden of taxation, Federal, state and local, is now so great compared with the ability of our people to pay it, that it constitutes one of the greatest impediments to business recovery."

Seiftenberg gave a general list of government expenditures and explained where the money is spent and who does the spending. As a remedy for today's tangled problem of government he suggested an active intelligent public interest in affairs of government, an earnest effort by all citizens to understand public affairs, and the selection of the type of public servants who will study the problems and sympathetically try to serve the whole people to the greatest good for the greatest number by approximating a situation that is best.

As remedies for increasing governmental costs Seiftenberg suggested a careful reduction of expenses by pruning and elimination; the adoption of a sound and scientific budget by each governmental unit; the enforcement of existing tax laws and the creation of new laws to eliminate inequality; and the consolidation of overlapping governmental units.

F. J. Sensenbrenner, chairman of the Citizens Reconstruction organization in Wisconsin, and Jack LeVois, vice chairman of the Menasha organization, gave short talks relative to the drive to put idle money to work throughout the country.

CHANGE HELD PROBABLE IN HOOVER STATUS

Economic Future of Nation Closely Bound Up With Political Developments

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1932 by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—Herbert Hoover will have completed the next year as president of the United States this week. One year hence the country will be preparing for an inauguration. Will it be Mr. Hoover once more or any one of the half dozen Democrats being mentioned?

The question is being asked both inside and outside of Washington with more than ordinary curiosity because the immediate economic future of the nation is believed to be closely linked up with political developments.

Mr. Hoover has served continuously in the executive branch of the government now for twelve years—nine of them as secretary of commerce. His service as food administrator brought him here in the spring of 1917 and he remained for nearly two years as a dollar-a-year man. His appointment as secretary of commerce in the Harding-Carlisle administration, gave short talks relative to the drive to put idle money to work throughout the country.

Communications will be sent to all Wisconsin mayors, extending the Rotary club's invitation to attend the Wisconsin League of Municipalities meeting in Menasha late in May, it was decided.

Hopewell, N. J.—The Sourlands—that group of eerie and uninhabited hills on the Mercer-Hunter-don-oh line in which nestles the home of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, is notorious in local folklore as the scene of strange and weird legends.

How to Relieve Head Noises

Good Advice For Those Who Fear Deafness

Catarth sufferers who are growing hard of hearing, should take warning from that stuffy feeling of pressure against their ear drums, those buzzing, rumbling head noises, like steam escaping, and take prompt, effective measures to stop this trouble. Head noises due to catarth are almost always the forerunners of deafness and most deaf folks suffer from them constantly. Often the never-ending, nerve-racking "hum" drives the sufferer almost frantic and may result in a nervous breakdown.

Thanks to a remarkable medicine, it is now possible to lessen these head noises and often completely overcome them, and with their disappearance the hearing also greatly improves, and frequently can be restored to normal. From Schintz Bros. or your druggist secure a oz. bottle of Parmitin (Double Strength), take this home and add to it a pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. Parmitin is used this way to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, and also to correct any excess secretions in the middle ear. Parmitin usually gives quick, effective results.

Every catarth sufferer should give Parmitin a trial. Adv.

ONE BADGER SOLON OPPOSED ROAD BILL

W. H. Stafford Only Wisconsin Representative to Vote Against Measure

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent.

Washington, March 3.—Rep. William H. Stafford of Milwaukee stood alone in the Wisconsin delegation in opposing the $132,500,000 federal aid road bill which would give Wisconsin $2,922,428 for road building. This would not have to be met with state funds.

All the other Wisconsin congressmen were present and voted, yet despite the threat of a presidential veto and the violent opposition of Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, who will have to administer the measure if it passes the senate and becomes a law.

Wisconsin now has available $2,651,895.81 of federal road funds due under existing law. It has under construction, as of Jan. 31, 1932, miles which will cost $3,119,586.12, for which $1,158,583.12 has been collected from federal funds and $90,647 approved for construction, with $45,000 federal aid allotted.

If the house of representatives had adopted the Ketcham amendment to make the allotments under the new measure on the basis of population, Wisconsin would have got only $2,880,000. Rep. John C. Ketcham of Michigan pointed out that Wisconsin has 2.4 per cent of the population but pays only 1.15 per cent of the federal taxes collected. Rep. Robert Low Bacon of New York added that Wisconsin would get 2.4 per cent of the funds. Rep. John M. Nelson of Madison spoke for the bill.

Your Birthday

"PISCES"
If March 4th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 2:50 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 10 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:20 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6:20 p. m.

It will be easy to abandon work for play and to substitute desire for duty on March 4th. Astrological influences favor the fickle, romantic side of Cupid's darts will fly into the hearts of many. Few serious attachments, however, will be formed. A day of extravagant expenditure.

The child born on this March 4th will have a practical, industrious nature. When short in wit, it will be long in common sense. It will always be long-headed and firm footed and will plod along in a determined, knowing manner. Whether stationed at the bottom or the top of the ladder, it will always be found to be doing its best.

Born March 4th, if you dare be true to your real inclinations, you would like to do or be the following:—be your own boss, within and outside the home; be under obligations to no one; have freedom of speech and action; not be obliged to mix with many people in a social way; have resource to all the books you want to read; and have an easy job, with plenty of money. By nature, you hate to do or be any of these things:—hate to be criticised or nagged; hate routine work; hate strenuous physical labour or exercise; hate getting up early in the morning, or going to bed early at night. You do not like to adhere to, or follow, any set pattern.

You have an uncertain disposition, due to a tendency to moods. At times you are hilarious, lighthearted, happy a splendid companion. At other times, you are morose, irritable, mumb and almost discourteous to everyone. You like to be a law unto yourself, whether other people like it or not.

You were born with a clever mind but you are too indifferent to ever accomplish anything out of the ordinary. You are too self-centered to ever love anyone else until it hurts. You expect much out of life, but desire to put little into it. Do not expect too much with such an outlook!

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

For coughs due to colds, the best remedy that money could buy can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the membrane, and soothes the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly cured.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe colds and bronchitis irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Wolf River Offers Early Opportunity For Angling

BY BEST CLAFFIN

I have just received a letter from an ardent angler who asks me to tell him where he can go for the earliest angling to be had in the state. I might tell him that, thanks to the political intrigue that seems to govern matters of sport as well as many other important matters in Wisconsin, he can go onto most of the best waters we have today, but I shall not do that. I shall only say that what is probably the earliest angling to be had in the state is that of the Wolf River from its mouth up to New London. It won't be long now until the wall-eyed pike fishermen will be seen on the river at various places, casting live minnows for that wonderful table fish.

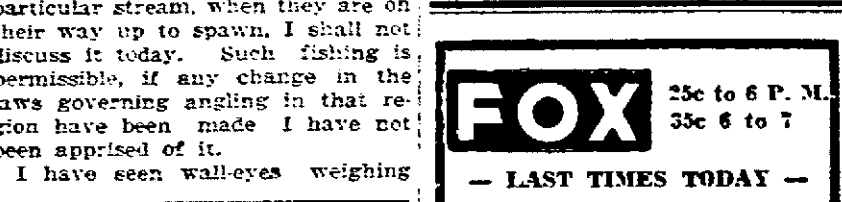

As to the ethical part of allowing those fish to be taken on just that particular stream, when they are on their way up to spawn, I shall not discuss it today. Such fishing is permissible, if any change in the laws governing angling in that region have been made. I have not been apprised of it.

I have seen walleyes weighing five pounds or more caught in the Wolf River at points above Fremont, and they were full of spawn, averaging well over a hundred thousand eggs for each fish. Though, for the most part, those that are caught on live minnows run rather small, which would indicate they are males.

After that comes the white bass fishing. This can be looked for invariably when the plum trees are in blossom, which usually occurs some time in May, though the weather largely governs that event. Last year it was earlier, and from all indications it will also occur unusually early this spring.

As in the case of the walleye fishing, live shiners are the accepted bait to use, although I can say from my own actual experience that the white bass will readily take a bait made by cutting a fin from one of the fish and then peeling it. When the hook is inserted in the tough cartilage of the back fin it is not easily removed, lasting, such a bait is far more lasting than live shiners. One of the latter must be used every time a fish is caught.

I traveled the entire lake region of northern Wisconsin last summer, not missing a week, and naturally picked up quite a fund of information as to where the best angling

KIWANIS AND FARM BOYS AT JOINT MEETING

Prof. Ivan J. Fay, Smith-Hughes Teacher, Speaks at Chilton Gathering

Special to Post-Crescent
Chilton—Tuesday evening a joint meeting of the Chilton Kiwanis club and the Smith-Hughes agriculture boys of the local high school was held in the hall of the Presbyterian church. Prof. Ivan J. Fay, state supervising teacher of Smith-Hughes agriculture was one of the speakers. Talking for his theme, the changes in agricultural life of the state within the past 30 years, he convinced his audience that the changes in the agricultural life of the state have been such that a man born in the early nineties can truthfully say that he was born in one agricultural age but is now living in another. Thirty years ago, said Prof. Fay, there were very few silos; today one sees them by the thousand. Thirty years ago there were no tractors; now many farms boast of them. Then the radio was unknown, and very few telephones were in use in farm homes; today practically every farm home has its telephone, radio, and automobile. At that time, farmers kept cows and chickens, but had no way of knowing which were kept at a profit and which were not. Today, by means of the Babson test, a farmer knows accurately how much he gets for each cow, and for each chicken. At the close of his address Prof. Fay put on a moving picture showing various phases of the activities of the eleven hundred Smith-Hughes boys in Wisconsin high schools during their two day judging contest of agricultural products at the university of Wisconsin last October.

Following Prof. Fay, Prof. T. W. Bewick of the state 4H club organizations addressed the meeting upon the work of the 4H clubs. Summarizing his talk, Prof. Bewick affirmed that man gets one-half of one per cent of his results from the air; one per cent from the soil; twelve per cent from the mines; and eighty-four per cent from the farms. At present there are 34,154 boys and girls in the 4H clubs of Wisconsin. The dinner was served by the Band Mothers club.

The home of Hugo Dhein on Highway 31, east of this city, was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday at about noon. The cause of the fire is unknown, but the fire seemed to have started in the attic. The chimney runs through the attic, as do electric light wires. The furniture from the first floor and most of the clothing were saved. The loss is estimated at between $5,000 and $6,000, partially covered by insurance.

The springlike weather of the past weeks will mean a big loss to many farmers who had new seedling of clover and alfalfa, the thaw followed by heavy freezing at night raised the tender plants out by their roots and froze them.

The annual meeting of the Anton Loehr creamery at St. John was held Thursday. During the year of 1931 this factory received 3,314,153 pounds of milk the greatest amount delivered by its patrons since its beginning. In March 1932 Mr. Loehr took possession of the factory, at that time very little interest was shown in the Dairy industry by the farmers of that community, the factory was run only several months during the year, with 40 patrons, the total number of pounds of milk delivered to the factory was 4505 for the month of April of that year, which netted the patrons $46.51 the entire years production amounted to $58,207 pounds for which the patrons received $9,353. Milk shipped to Chicago from this factory was found to have less than 100 bacteria count, while 2500 is considered fair. The board of health of Chicago asked that Mr. Loehr send pictures of barns and milk houses of his patrons so that they might show them to the City people so that they could see how good milk is produced and kept. It was through Mr. Loehr's efforts that the Casiene factory at Kaukauna was established. And again through the crusade of Mr. Loehr that the Wisconsin Dairy union was organized at St. John. A meeting of the Wisconsin Dairy union is scheduled for Tuesday evening at Dundas. Mr. Anton Loehr the organizer of the union will be the principal speaker. Other meetings are to be held at various factories of the county during the week. Farmers from all over the state have written Mr. Loehr promising their support in this movement to help the farmer back on his feet again, and restore his buying power.

Kaukauna—According to Karl E. Stansbury, chairman of the local Citizens Relief Organization, which will conduct a campaign in Kaukauna to put idle money into circulation, drive committees will meet in the council chambers of the municipal building at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. "The drive will be launched with an intensive campaign the first day, groups canvassing the city," the chairman said.

Similar drives will be conducted in every city in accordance to President Herbert Hoover's plan of putting idle money to work. The money will be kept in local banks. The bonds will be in $50, $100, and $500 denominations, and may be cashed on 60 days notice. All of the bonds will mature within a year. "SNOW FLEAS" CAN BREED IN ICE WATER

State Entomologist Tells About Curious Insects

Madison—That insects known as "snow fleas" not only exist but enjoy baths in ice water and can use melting snow for an incubator for their eggs is the statement made by state entomologist E. L. Chambers of the department of agriculture and markets in response to requests for information sent in from various localities recently.

The snow flea, Mr. Chambers explains, is so called because it has a kind of tail or forked muscular appendage at the base of the abdomen by which it propels itself in a series of hops or jumps. The insect belongs to the scientific group known as collembola, is black in color, and varies in size from minute to small. The snow fleas often occur in enormous numbers on the surface of soil in woodlands, in decaying vegetable matter, on the surface of stagnant water or on snow and other damp places.

One reason why so many have been seen recently is due to the relatively mild weather of the past season which has allowed the fleas to lay and hatch eggs during the warmer days. The insect has no wings but has been found crawling about in houses and becomes a pest in maple sap buckets. While it is not injurious, it may become a nuisance, and Mr. Chambers recommends that it be killed with pyrethrum or contact sprays, or pools where it is found may be dusted with sulphur.

541,000 HORSES,
MULES IN STATE

Reduction of 10,000 Under Last Year Is Shown in Report

Madison—Wisconsin farmers will begin spring work this year with about 10,000 fewer horses than last year. Estimates prepared by the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States departments of agriculture indicate that there are only 541,000 horses and mules on the farms of the state now as compared with 551,000 last year and 557,000 two years ago.

For years, tractors, trucks, and automobiles have been replacing horses on the roads and fields of the state. In 1915, there were 752,000 horses in Wisconsin, but since that time the horse population has declined until today it is scarcely three-fourths as large as in that year.

Horses have declined in value as well as in number. In 1914, horses were worth an average of $136 per head and values of $200 per head were not unusual. This year the average value on January 1 was only $77.60, while in 1929 horses were worth $103 per head.

The horse and mule population of the nation's farms has been declining ever since 1919. The present number of these animals is estimated at 17,761,000 head as compared with 18,359,000 head last year and 19,050,000 in 1930. In 1919, there were 25,436,000 horses and mules on American farms. Land which was formerly required to provide feed for these horses has been transferred to other uses. In 1927 the United States department of agriculture estimated that declining numbers of horses on farms had made from 15 to 20 million acres of crop land unnecessary for the growing of food for these animals and this land has gone into other crops.

WOULD SET STANDARD FOR ONIONS, CABBAGE

Madison—(AP)—The state department of agriculture and markets today announced hearings to be held March 8, 9 and 10 in regard to onion set grade requirements and standards for kraut cabbage.

At Racine on March 8, the department will consider changing onion set tops from the present two inch length to two and one half inches. Southeastern Wisconsin producers grow between 75 and 100 carloads of onion sets annually.

Hearings on Kraut cabbage, upon which there are no standards at present, will be held in Racine March 8, at Frankville, March 9 and at Union Grove, March 10.

The total population of Canada, under the June, 1931 census, was approximately 19,850,000.

FRIDAY'S GAMES
Oshkosh at Appleton.
Sheboygan at East.
Marquette at Fond du Lac.
Manitowish at West.

APPLETON high school basketball team will play one of the last two home games on the 1932 schedule Friday night when it meets Oshkosh high school five at Armory G. Two games will be played, the second meeting Oshkosh seconds in the curtain raiser at 7 o'clock.

Holders of second place in conference standings it doesn't matter much what happens in one of the remaining games. However, the Orange quintet has hopes of someone beating West Green Bay and throwing the race back into a tie between the Orange and Bays.

Johnston at Center
Don Johnston will be back in the Orange lineup for tomorrow's game replacing Bill Peotter whose caging days for this season have ended. Johnston showed very well last week and if he continues the performance should be able to hold his own.

There probably will not be any other changes in the Orange lineup. Rules, Bowler and Priebe will perform at the forward berths, and Mortell and Verrier as guards.
Oshkosh's invading quintet has been having fair success during the last few weeks, the original team, which for a time was a flag contender, being wrecked by mid-year graduations. Malchow, guard, still is with the team and shows a total of 60 points scored this season in Valley competition.

The scoring records show Froehlich, Sheboygan, leading the conference, with 65 points and with E. W. of West Green Bay trailing him by a point. Peotter tops the Appleton scorers with 55 points which rates him fourth in standings.

Bowling Has 29 Points
Bowler, diminutive Appleton forward, although he has played in only two games, has counted 29 points. He rates third among Appleton scorers being headed only by Peotter and Mortell.

Scoring records follow:

NORTH FONDY TO START BALL LOOP

Would Take Best Talent of Disbanded Leagues for a New Circuit

FOND DU LAC—Reorganization of the North Fond du Lac Tigers baseball club for the 1932 season was completed at a meeting held Tuesday night in the village hall.

Plans were discussed for the organization of a new six or eight team league to take the place of the Winnebago circuit which failed to come to life this year when several of the teams which composed the group last summer decided to play in amateur leagues.

The village members decided to send invitations to teams at Mayville, West Bend, Plymouth, Kohler, Fond du Lac, Campbellsport, Ripon, Green Lake, Waupun and Stockbridge to attend an open meeting to be held in the village hall at North Fond du Lac March 8.

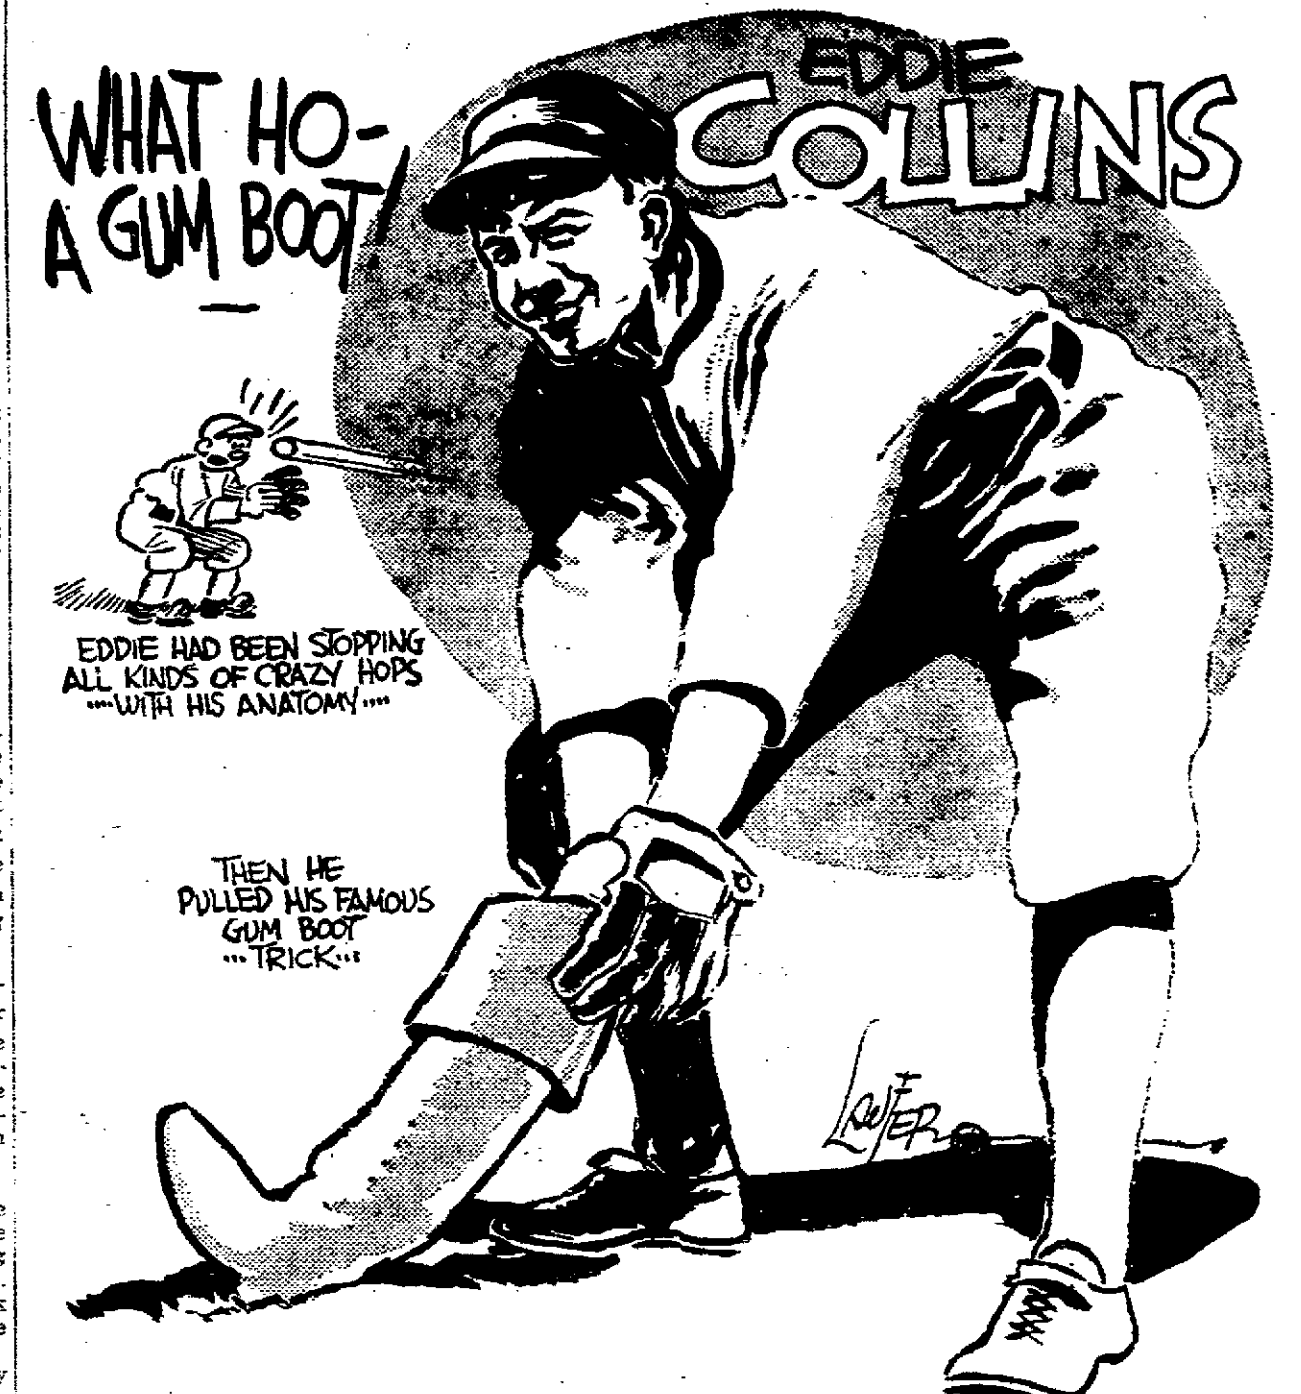

It was definitely determined that the old Winnebago league would not be re-organized this year. In addition it was learned that no attempt would be made to organize the Badger amateur league.

John Saff, playing manager of the squad, handed in his resignation and made it known that he would not consider re-election this season. Saff was the team's star second sacker last summer and declared that it was impossible for him to play his position properly and give the necessary attention to managing the team.

JACK ELDER GETS A NEW SPORTS JOB

Chicago—(AP)—Jack Elder, former Notre Dame football and track star, has been named athletic director of the Catholic Youth organization, a body designed to promote athletics.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS ... By Laufer

THEY ALL LAUGHED WHEN EDDIE COLLINS showed his disgust at the condition of the Chicago White Sox playing field. After a miserable day at second, when he had stopped bad hops with various parts of his anatomy, Collins came to the park early. He had borrowed a fireman's gum boot, which he buried under the turf about 10 feet back of second base. On his first fielding chance that afternoon, Eddie sprawled headlong, picked himself up and went to the spot where the mishap occurred. The crowd howled its delight when Collins pulled the boot out of the ground. Old man Comiskey was a spectator, and the next day the infield was fixed.

Here the tempo of the game became more or less wild and each team blew a couple shots. Colbert, Lawrence forward, broke loose once and dribbled under the basket for a pot shot but the ball hit the bottom of the rim and failed to go through.

Telling about it later, Bill said the Vikings really needed points then and after the blow he finally got up enough nerve to look over at Coach Denney. "And," says Bill, "the coach was almost down on his head on the floor, pulling his hair. I felt bad."

And then a few minutes later Vanderbloemen galloped down the side lines and missed an easy shot and the boys figured they'd have to walk home.

When the count got to 29 and 28 the Vikings used their height to advantage and stalled through the last few seconds. Rafoth would tip the ball to Colbert on a jump and Bill would clutch it and roll on the floor to kill time. Then Bill would get up and tip the ball to Rafoth and he'd hang onto it and fall down. The act was repeated until the final whistle when the wildest, happiest kid in the bunch was Coach Denney, who it is reported, hadn't slept for days while cagers from the Beloit gym chased him all over the Fourth ward.

Reports also are that the game became a wild and furious affair long before the end and that the Vikings, after being treated rough for a while started a little war of their own and came out of the mess with the decision. Officials had little control over the players. In the last few minutes of play "the kid" saying that the Vikings are primed to the girls for Saturday's encounter at Carroll. They've been clicking off points regularly in all games, Tuesday's being the first they haven't hit the 30 mark in a long while. A tie for the Big Four looms Saturday night and if the Vikings can hold the hoop and are in a "battling mood," it's going to be bad news for someone.

Coaches are funny too. Coaching Doc McAnnell who entered the defensive tactics in basketball that have resulted in the slow aspect of the game and much of the present day stalling hasn't had so much luck in basketball recently so he's changing the rules, something he wouldn't think of if he had a good squad this last year.

The proposal to toss all free throws at the close of the half in basketball games has the unusual approval of the little Doc. He also endorsed the proposal to cancel free throws. The proposal, he said, will prevent constant interruption in play and will permit more time for actual play. If teams cancel their free throws, the team scoring most often from the field would be insured of victory to a greater degree.

"Of greater import in my eyes even than these advantages, will be the elimination of the crash and plunge for the rebounding ball on missed free throws, and the consequent lessening of the undue advantage in height in present day ball."

"I never could accept happily the importance of excessive height in the player and always have felt that the elimination of tipoff plays in center and the elimination of rebound work at goal was for the best interests of the game."

The first three teams won their way to the tournament by their clear records during the season. Kaukauna won enough games to advance without playing a elimination game; Kewaunee came here from the Sturgeon Bay district, having defeated Algoma for first place.

Lomira defeated Kiel by one point, 14 and 15, and New London defeated Omro by the one-sided score of 32 and 17 in the Wednesday afternoon elimination games, while Menasha defeated Valders by a 13 to 10 score Wednesday evening.

DIZZY DEAN IS QUIETEST ROOK ON CARD STAFF

"Wise Guy" of Last Year Has Reformed: Has Quit His Talking

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
RAIDEN, Fla.—(AP)—The "Grapefruit circuit" this year seems to be full of earnest young athletes in the grip of a reform wave. Jerome H. (Dizzy) Dean is one of the latest to make the turn to the right, clamp the soft pedal on his loud speaking facilities and get down to the serious business of becoming a major league regular.

Dizzy came to the camp of the St. Louis Cardinals a year ago in full blast, ready to knock the boys for a row of palmetto trees. He quickly ran into trouble, had his tonsils extracted and received a railroad ticket back to Houston, Texas.

"That," softly remarked this 20-year-old boy who may set the National league on fire this year, "taught me the lesson of my young life. I went back to work again. Then I got married. Now you can tell me that old man Dean's boy is here to keep his mouth shut most of the time and keep on working."

Won't Be So Tough
"I will tell you one big idea I have. I don't think it will be any tougher pitching in this league than it was in Texas. I don't worry about control because I have it. I don't mind admitting I have a high hard one that I can buzz through there. But here's the thing: Up in the big league a pitcher has better support and smarter. The other fellows do their share of the game. I don't figure I will have to be down most of the time or keep pulling myself out of a fix."

"Of course it doesn't cramp my style any to be with the best club in the big leagues."

Dean won 25 games, lost 19 with Houston last year. He struck out 300, in about 425 innings and showed an earned run average of only 1.53.

Oklahoma's gift to the pitching craft figures with the "breaks," he might win 20 games for the Cardinals but he isn't standing around the hotel corner these mellow evenings sounding off about it. Strange as it may seem, Dizzy is one of the quietest soft-spoken boys in camp. He and Pepper Martin are pals.

Dean reported a little underweight, an attack of "flu." He's around 185 now but will add at least ten more pounds to his six feet four inches of framework.

He's eager to get another exhibition shot at the Athletics and is slated to pitch three innings in the second game of the spring "world series" at Miami this Sunday. Tex Carleton, another young pitching star from the Houston farm of the Cardinals, is slated to work in the same game.

BIG 10 TRACK TEAMS HOLD INDOOR MEET

Chicago—(AP)—Big Ten track teams will get a good idea of which team to fear for the approaching indoor championship meet this week end.

Every team in the conference except Wisconsin and Iowa will swing into action in two big meets Friday and Saturday and the results will signal one of them as the formidable contender for the indoor crown. Five teams—Indiana, Minnesota, Northwestern, Purdue and Chicago—will engage in a five-cornered meet in the University of Chicago's indoor track Friday night while Ohio State, already rated as a big threat because of a quadrangular two weeks ago, together with Illinois and Michigan meet at Ann Arbor.

Indiana, victorious over Ohio State, Iowa, Purdue and Illinois, is a heavy favorite in the Chicago meet.

RAY SCHALK SIGNS AS BUFFALO BOSS

"Cracker" Has Had Only Fair Success as Manager of Ball Clubs

Chicago—(AP)—Baseball's mighty "Cracker" Ray Schalk has signed on as the major league coach of the Buffalo Bisons.

When Schalk, familiarly known as "Cracker," signed up yesterday as manager of the Buffalo International league club, one of the best known figures in baseball stepped out of the big show, probably for good.

As player, manager and coach, the "Cracker" has been in the majors without missing a single season since way back in 1912 when he was sent by Milwaukee to the White Sox. As a catcher, he turned in one of the most brilliant careers in baseball history—many insist today that it was easily the best to date—only to end it as a dismissed manager in mid-season.

Schalk's managerial and coaching career was unsuccessful largely because he happened to be with clubs which were expected to land some players in the world series pay-off and failed to do so.

LETTER CLEW IN LINDBERGH KIDNAP CASE

Lailed in Boston by Woman — Says Child Is Held in New Jersey Town

naper abducted the baby or anyone else.

Gov. Moore said that the Lindberghs had been turned into a sub-post office, and equipped with a telephone, a police radio and a typewriter cut in with the ur state police network.

He said the Lindberghs were being up well under the strain and that the Lindberghs had expressed to him appreciation of police endeavors.

"Do the Lindberghs have full hope at the baby will be returned to them?" the governor was asked by one of the half a hundred reporters who besieged him after his call at the Lindbergh home.

"I couldn't say about that," he replied.

Copyright, 1932, Associated Press

Hopewell, N. J. — There is no word of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., the most famous baby in the world, held by kidnapers for $50,000 ransom.

All night the Lindbergh home was lit with lights. For five miles it could be seen like a beacon inviting the kidnapers to bring him back home, no matter the monetary cost, of the coming of a dull dawn found a little crib empty.

There was a hint of hope. First, as postcard, mailed in Newark yesterday and received by Col. Charles Lindbergh later in the day, stating that the baby was safe and for a man who flew the New York to Paris, trail to await further information.

Second, there was the intimation on the household itself that the kid might possibly be restored to its parents today.

There was no explanation of the expression of belief that the 20-month-old baby would be returned today. Perhaps it was predicted on negotiations with the kidnapers. Such negotiations, however, have been repeated denied.

So far, no official communication has been received from the kidnapers in the hands of the authorities was the story told them by a Miss Keating, a waitress of Pennington, which is only a few miles from Hopewell.

Miss Keating said three men entered the restaurant where she is employed and inquired the way to the Lindbergh home. That was last Friday night. She gave them the address to reach the secluded, $50,000 hideout.

The same three men returned to the restaurant Tuesday night. She remembered them distinctly. After a brief lunch, they left. Two hours after their departure, the Lindbergh baby was gone from his nursery.

Studies Rogues' Galleries

The authorities regarded Miss Keating's information as highly important. She was taken by a state trooper to Newark and New York to study pictures in the rogues' galleries in the hope she might be able to identify photographs of the men. To report on the outcome of the study, New York had been received very early today. At Newark, however, it was understood she selected several photographs, but there was no comment by the police.

Shortly after the visit to Newark Miss Keating and the state police officer appeared at Jersey City police headquarters. Following their conference with police authorities Jersey City police were ordered to search all boarding houses and hotels in the vicinity of the Lindbergh home, a woman and a baby.

The instruction was in Newark in the hope she might be able to identify photographs of the men. To report on the outcome of the study, New York had been received very early today. At Newark, however, it was understood she selected several photographs, but there was no comment by the police.

It was an uncertain clew at best, but nothing was being left unturned. Search already has been started for every one of the fifteen or more men engaged in the construction of the Lindbergh home. This action is predicated on the police belief that the kidnapers apparently were thoroughly informed as to the location of the nursery, for they came during the three-day siege, just on the verge of reaching the second story window opening into the child's room.

Lindbergh Believed

Col. Lindbergh and his wife, the former Anne Morrow, made it clear their interest was solely with their stolen child and was not concerned with the capture and punishment of the kidnapers. The never talkative father maintained his silence throughout last night, leaving all announcements of the progress of the hunt to state police and the governor's office in Trenton.

There was quite clear in statements made by those in close touch with him, that Col. Lindbergh is ready and eager to negotiate for the baby's return and to meet the kidnapers' ransom demands.

Police continue to guard the contents of the note presumed to have been left on the nursery window sill by the kidnapers. Even the figure $50,000, generally understood to be the amount specified as ransom, was without confirmation from the Lindberghs. Whether the money has been obtained and is being kept at the estate now, or whether arrangements have been made is equally uncertain.

Col. Lindbergh asked newspapermen last night to leave the estate. He explained that the establishment of press headquarters in the garage, and the constant movement of scores of newsmen and photographers throughout the vicinity of the farm made it difficult to deal with the kidnapers. Downturns in Wheat Values Follow Declines on Stock Market

By John P. Boughan
Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago — Late reactions more than wiped out price gains in central markets today.

Downturns of wheat values in the last part of the day followed declines in New York stocks and in Liverpool wheat. North American wheat export business was disappointing as a whole, and bear sentiment was emphasized by a forecast that rain or snow would be general throughout the United States winter wheat belt.

Washington proposals to prohibit the sale of farm board wheat at lower than 31 cents for No. 2 hard grades were interpreted as showing a trend in congress to fix a practical minimum price for stabilization holdings which have been hanging over the market. Indications of a new cold wave developing in the Canadian northwest and of colder weather in domestic winter wheat territories were an additional incentive to buyers. Notice was also taken of advances that in central and southwestern Saskatchewan depicted soil moisture has not been replenished.

Moderate setbacks from early top prices for wheat were associated with news that contrary to general expectations British bank raids had been relaxed. On the other hand a fair amount of overnight export business in North American wheat was announced. Famine reports were received from Russian districts east of the Volga river. Corn and oats averaged higher with wheat. Provisions were easy despite upturns in hog values.

DEMOCRATIC RACE FOR CANDIDACY IS AT DECISIVE POINT

Dutcher Says Recent Developments Favor Roosevelt

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington — The fight for the Democratic presidential nomination, which grows more exciting from day to day, has reached a point where the decisive breaks are anticipated in the approaching state primaries.

The breaks will be for or against Governor Roosevelt of New York, the leading candidate. Recent developments have strengthened the "stop-Roosevelt" movement.

The primary results may not mean success or defeat for the governor's candidacy, but the future is so cloudy that all interested bystanders and participants look eagerly forward to the voting not only to see who gets the delegates in states where there are primary contests but also to see what Roosevelt and other candidates can do as vote getters in other states than their own.

Temporarily Blocked

Since Alf Smith broke silence to aid Roosevelt, anti-Roosevelt forces it has become obvious that Roosevelt's dash down the field has been at least temporarily blocked.

And occasional reports come in that some state delegations the Roosevelt managers thought they had in the bag are not in the bag at all. To break the jam, Roosevelt must make a good primary showing.

If he makes a poor showing the belief will increase that his goose is cooked.

The primary elections which seem important or potentially important at this time, with the number of delegates involved in each, are:

MARCH 8—New Hampshire, 8.
MARCH 15—North Dakota, 10.
MARCH 23—Georgia, 28.
APRIL 5—Wisconsin, 26.
APRIL 26—Pennsylvania, 76, and Massachusetts, 36.

Other primaries, including about a dozen in May, can be considered when more information is available.

Alfalfa Bill Enters

North Dakota and Nebraska, where Alfalfa Bill Murray of Oklahoma is after North Dakota, which is the type of territory in which he flourishes, and may win.

There's a Smith slate opposed to the Roosevelt slate in New Hampshire, with Roosevelt picked to win. But there again he has more to lose than to gain—if he loses.

Georgia, where Judge G. H. Howard will oppose Roosevelt and promises to try to deliver any delegates he gets to Speaker Garner, will be interesting to the extent any sizeable vote Howard gets may be interpreted as a Garner vote.

Wisconsin Important

Wisconsin has been regarded as sewn up by Roosevelt forces. But there again comes a threat in the form of a slate of unpledged delegates led by National Committee man John M. Callahan, a Smith man.

Roosevelt presumably will win, but the result will be watched closely.

Party leaders are split on Roosevelt in both Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, and a substantial faction has lined up against him in the latter state. Massachusetts is one of the two northern states which went for Alf in 1928 and many of her Democrats are still fond of him.

Democracy is wet in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania as well as in New Hampshire and Wisconsin and Roosevelt's two recent comparative strong attacks on prohibition apparently were directed at these wet northern states in order to counteract common reports that he wasn't "wet enough" to satisfy Smith.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

PLAYING A HAND JUST SO

Professor James P. Richardson of Hanover, New Hampshire, is not only a former President of the American Whist League and thus one of that comparatively small group of great players of that ancient game, but he is a splendid Contract player as well, as the hand below, recently played by him, discloses.

Neither side vulnerable.

The Bidding:

South West North East

3NT Pass Pass Pass

This hand is interesting on account of its distribution, the curiously regular pattern of the South hand and the opportunity given the Declarer for careful counting as well as the necessity for accurate play, if the contract is to be fulfilled against any defense.

West opened the diamond trey and South, when the Dummy went down, could see that his only opportunity to make the contract was to set the long hearts in North's hand and also to hope that his hand pattern is duplicated so far as West is concerned; that is, that West also has a 4-3-3 distribution. Winning the first lead with the eight of diamonds in Dummy, a small heart was led and finessed, the Queen holding the trick. The Ace of hearts was followed with a small heart which East won with the King. East now shifted to the spades, leading the Ten. South played the Queen and West won with the King and returned the Knave. When South refused to win the suit was continued and the Declarer was thrown in the lead. A small diamond was led and when West refused to win it, Dummy won with the nine. The good heart was now cashed and the Declarer returned to his hand with the Ace of Diamonds. On the eleventh trick West was thrown in the lead with a diamond and forced to lead up to South's tenace in clubs.

Thus played by Professor Richardson, West could not escape the net. If at trick six West had led the spade five instead of the spade Knave, Professor Richardson would have taken that trick and returned a spade, as East by his lead cannot hold the Knave, and the play from that point would have followed the same lines.

TODAY'S POINTER

Many contracts are accurately bid but are not made in the play due to the failure of the Declarer to consider all factors and plan the play of the hand according to all available information. It is useless to bid a hand correctly and then fail to play it correctly.

North Dakota Fowl Starts

Impromptu Gold Stompede

Towner, N. D. — (AP) — Signs that puzzle humans much less than the hardy chickens which started an impromptu gold rush hereabouts, are cropping up on the prairie.

And if the fowl that picked up the gold nuggets were here and could read, he doubtless would chuckle at such posters as "Devil's Dream," "Laughing Water," "Golden Glow," and "Rich Man's Folly" that now adorn the bleak stretches of ranch land as names of claims.

The romance of the prairie country threatens to be relit. The rush, begun after a native chicken, marketed in Chicago, was found to have gold in its gullet, has reached that realistic stage in which participants are swinging fists in the best chicken-jumping fashion.

Several syndicates are in action ballyhooing the alleged gold content of earth, which, they declare, runs as high as $4.80 per ton.

More than 30,000 acres of land has been leased or bought outright, not including a considerable quantity of government land on which claim-stakes have been driven down.

A Minot Daily News reporter went home with the story that "real estate prices in the Denbigh area have begun to skyrocket."

"Edward Gilbertson of Towner, a real estate agent and former McHenry Co. treasurer," he wrote, "has many listings of land. Some owners have hurriedly withdrawn their land, believing their prices were too low. Now they don't know what to ask, with all of this talk of gold."

The reporter found one rancher calmly viewing the spectacle of persons dashing over the countryside, pausing occasionally to gouge the sandy soil with shovel or hoe. Extensive digging awaits warmer weather and departure of frost from the ground.

Three years ago the rancher bought the nucleus of his cattle herd at $100 a head. Now, the rancher said he gladly would sell the animals for $25 apiece.

"Maybe," he commented, "better times are ahead. Anyway, if there's gold in that pasture, to heck with the cows."

CITY GETS $9,951

A check for $9,951.19 was received Wednesday by F. E. Bachman, city treasurer, from the Wisconsin Telephone company. The money represents the license tax on the Appleton exchange. The amount is determined by taking five per cent of 85 per cent of the gross receipts of the local exchange. The total gross receipts of the Appleton company amounted to $254,848 in 1931.

AMLIE ATTACKS POSTAL SALARIES

Says Money Is Political Subsidy Paid to Dominant Party

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington — The fifty million dollars paid to postmasters annually is "nothing more nor less than a political subsidy paid to the dominant national political party," Representative Thomas R. Amle of Elkhorn charged in a speech in the house of representatives Tuesday.

Quoting speeches made by Postmaster General Brown, first assistant postmaster general Arch Coleman and second assistant postmaster general W. Irving Glover urging postmasters to engage in politics, the last to Wisconsin postmasters at Appleton in January, Amle predicted that the remarks of the third and fourth assistant postmasters general would "probably partake of the exhortation of a football coach to his losing team between halves."

Civil service examinations for presidential postmasterships are farces, he insisted, stating that "examinations are usually given until the chosen man becomes one of the three eligibles."

The executive officer calling for examinations in these cases, he said, "deceived no one but the postmasters themselves. It led them to believe that they were government employees rather than subsidized politicians."

Pointing out that Wisconsin progressives have no political patronage, Amle said, "I presume we could have our share of this patronage if we were willing to become administration yesmen."

RESTRAINING ORDER IS

ISSUED ON LICENSE LAW

Milwaukee — (AP) — A temporary order restraining officials from enforcing the automobile licensing law as it applies to used cars in the hands of dealers was signed here Wednesday by Circuit Judge Daniel W. Sullivan.

A hearing will be held March 12 to determine whether the injunction is to be permanent.

The action was brought by the Wisconsin Used Automobile dealers' association. It is the contention of the association's attorney, Joseph A. Padway, that haste in drawing up the 1931 registration law resulted in neglect of the legislature to differentiate between second hand dealers and those selling new cars. The law would require a dealer to have licenses for all machines on hand, even if they are to be junked.

White will become temporary head of a new federal penal farm at El Paso, Texas.

OFFICIALS CAN'T DO BUSINESS WITH CITY

Reminders that the city can enter into no contract with persons connected officially with the city were sent to all members of boards and commissions by Carl E. Becher, city clerk, this week. The letter was precipitated by a recent purchase of material for bridge repairs from a firm with city connections. The resolution prohibiting such purchases was passed by the council on Aug. 29, 1930.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

3,356 BADGERS GIVEN ROAD JOBS IN MONTH

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington — A total of 3,356 badgers were employed on state highway work in Wisconsin during January, according to the president's organization for unemployment relief.

Contracts for 34 miles of roads and bridges in Wisconsin were let during January. Their total value equaled $1,506,749, the third highest contract price reported among all the states.

For the country as a whole, 184,582 persons were given work on state highway projects in January; and 1,723 miles of highway contracted for with a total contract price of $13,756,759.

This is a decrease in value of contracts let but an increase in number of persons employed, indicating, according to W. C. Markham, executive secretary of the American Association of State Highway Officials, that states are eliminating where it is economically possible, high powered machinery and are employing more men.
